Jakarta, West Java Placed Under Rule Of Martial Law

PRESIDENT SUKARNO of Indonesia, right, was all smiles last Tuesday after laying the cornerstone at the campus of the new University of Indonesia at Tjiputat, a suburb of Jakarta. With him as they ate an Indonesian fruit called "durian," which is odorous but very tasty, were U. S. Ambassador Marshal Green, left, and Mexican Ambassador Plutarco Albarran. Friday forces loyal to Sukarno routed rebels in the capital city, Jakarta radio announced. (AP Wirephoto)

Sukarno Still In Top Seat, Reports Say

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) Radio Jakarta said today martial law had been proclaimed in Jakarta and throughout West Java after an attempted military coup to oust President Sukarno.

The radio said Sukarno was still in control.

Despite the broadcast, the Indonesian capital seethed with concern and it was by no means certain the rebels had been entirely crushed in this 3,000-mile-long island nation.

Chief Is Safe

Statements that the flamboyant Sukarno, 64, was well and at least nominally in charge came from two generals loyal to him and the Indonesian defense minister, Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution. The armed forces chief is one of the few Indonesian leaders who has remained lukewarm to the Communists.

The coup's leader, an obscure army officer, said he staged the revolt to "save" Sukarno from a plot backed by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to oust him on Armed Forces Day next Tuesday. He said what he called U.S.-backed plotters were "a council of generals."

The U.S. Embassy denied the charge.

There was no sight of Sukarno in the capital.

One of the loyalist officers, Brig. Gen. Suharto, described Sukarno and Nasution as "safe and in good health."

Suharto also signed an army announcement that there was an "understanding between the army, navy and police" to eliminate the rebels.

The coup was engineered before dawn Friday by an officer in Sukarno's guard, Lt. Col. Untung. He seized the radio station, announced to the country he was in power, and proclaimed a 45-member revolutionary council.

By nightfall, the army broadcast an announcement that the coup had been put down.

Nevertheless, diplomats expressed concern in the confused situation, noting that the air force commander, Vice Marshal Omar Dhani, was one of the first to join Untung's rebels.

The army announcement made no mention of the air force or the role of its Soviet-made jet fighters in the military power plays.

In Jakarta, life continued relatively normal, with shops open and the usual traffic jams in the city of three million. A few shots were heard as armored cars prowled the streets and loyalist troops boxed off rebel soldiers in the area of the presidential palace.

Indonesian political parties, notably the Communists, remained curiously silent as the swift cascade of coup and countercoup jarred a regime that has been engaging in an increasingly warm flirtation with Peking.

Untung's rveolutionary council included at least 10 Communists or sympathizers, but his own political color was not known.

Suharto, Sukarno's chief defender, is commander of the army's stretegic command and temporary chief of the army.

Another officer, Brig. Gen. Sabur, said in a broadcast that Sukarno remains head of the government, but he gave no clue as to the president's whereabouts. Sabur is commander of the presidential bodyguard and presumably out ranks Untung, the coup leader.

Cambodians Won't Attend U.N. Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cambodia announced Friday a boycott of all main committees of the General Assembly as a protest against what it said was the inability of the United Nations to deal with critical world issues.

In a policy speech to the 117-nation assembly that bristled with denunciations of the United States, Cambodian Ambassador Huot Sambath said his Southeast Asian country would not quit the United Nations entirely.

Will Reject Posts

He declared Cambodia would keep its seat in the assembly, but would not take part in the work of the seven main assembly committees or other assembly organs, nor accept any post offered to Cambodia. U.N. issues are debated at length in committees, and their recommendations are sent to the assembly for ratification.

Sambath said that the ability of the United States to deal with serious world issues had been eroded because of the absence of Communist China from its membership.

He declared that none of the great world issues can be resolved without participation of Peking and added: "The United Nations needs China more than China needs the United Nations."

He asserted that Cambodia was concerned by "the paralysis of the United Nations in restoring peace wherever it has disappeared."

Sambath denounced U.S. bombing of targets in North Viet Nam and U.S. military action against the Communist Viet Cong in South Viet Nam.

"The Cambodian delegation hopes that in this General Assembly there will be powers and countries that will inscribe on the agenda the question of American intervention in Southeast Asia and the right of the Indochinese people to solve their problems without interference," he said.

He said Cambodia would prefer to have the U.N. headquarters in Geneva rather than in a country "which adopts an attitude contrary to human rights in its treatment of its black and colored people."

Ayub Blasts India But Decries Battle

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan said Friday that India's leaders are masquerading as liberals, but "they stand exposed before the whole world as aggressors."

He charged Indian leaders "have put on a cloak of Western liberalism under which they conceal a dagger of fanaticism."

But the Pakistani president declared in a broadcast to his people, Pakistanis want to live at peace with India.

"We want to establish normal relations with India as we have done with all our neighbors," he said.

Fresh Fight Flares

His speech came amid Pakistani reports of fresh fighting on the Kashmir cease-fire line north of Chhamb.

Auyb conferred with Canadian Maj. Gen. Bruce MacDonald head of the United Nations peacekeeping operation assigned to the Pakistan-India frontier.

In Karachi, Radio Pakistan said Indian troops attacked along the Kashmir line north of Chhamb on Thursday night with artillery and mortars. Pakistan is fought back, the radio said.

Sadai Kashmir, the rebel voice of Kashmir, claimed, meanwhile that guerrillas set fire to four Indian army camps in the Rajauri area and killed 14 Indian soldiers in two separate clashes.

In New Delhi, Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri described as precarious the U.N. cease-fire vine established last week.

Each side has charged repeated violations by the other.

MacDonald, who came from Cyprus to head the U.N. peace force, conferred with both Auyb and Gen. Mohd Musa, Pakistan's army chief.

He told newsmen: "Our people have already started their observation works. Wherever there is trouble we will try to get them there."

Mariner Will Be Silenced By Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists bid bon voyage Friday to an "Ancient Mariner" — now 307 days old and nearing the end of its usefulness — by turning off the radio which transmitted 21 historic close-ups of Mars last July.

The U.S. spacecraft Mariner 4,191 million straight-line miles from earth, is beginning to show signs of age: The error rate in its radio signals is increasing.

"It's near the end of useful telemetry," said a spokesman at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

New Contact Set

Plans called for David W. Douglas, space flight operations officer for the Mariner project, to radio a command turning off the high-power, narrow-angle antenna by which Mariner 4 has transmitted 350 million bits of scientific information.

The same command — the 85th since the 575-pound spacecraft was launched on its record-setting flight last Nov. 28 — will switch on a wide-angle, power-saving antenna over which Mariner 4 may be roused when its orbit around the sun carries it close to earth again in the summer of 1967.

Laboratory scientists who built and have tracked Mariner 4 on its curving 419-million-mile voyage say they doubt they will be able to hear Mariner 4 again before next spring, when a new 210-foot dish antenna at Goldstone, Calif., becomes operational.

Mariner 4 has been tracked up to now by an 85-foot antenna at Goldstone. This is not expected to pick up the spacecraft's signals after they are reduced in power.

"We're saying 'farewell and well done' to Mariner 4," a laboratory spokesman said. "We know this may be our last communication with the spacecraft. It's already survived longer than we hoped, and so many things could happen over the next two years—to the batteries, to the solar panels which convert sunlight into electricity for the radio and other instruments, and to the supply of nitrogen gas for its attitude-control jets.

Return From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Ace Gentry Sr., 306 Country Club Drive, Monroe, have just returned home from a trip to Mississippi, Tennessee, Arkansas, Alabama, Kentucky and Missouri, where they visited many historical sites.

Mrs. Gentry, (Jean Leithton Gentry, author of Mama and the Outlaw), said they found this vacation much more restful than they did their recent trip to the World's Fair.

Another Mrs.

A miss at the Ouachita Parish School Board office won't be a miss much longer. Miss Vevelene Westerburg is the case in point, who, after 6 p.m. today, will be a "Mrs."

She was the center of attention Friday at a get-together in her honor, thrown by fellow employees.

As gifts, she got a set of steak knives and, for the cool fall nights, an electric blanket. No rolling pin? Apparently that comes later.

African Nabbed For Bomb Blast

BULAWAYO, Rhodesia (AP) — Police arrested an African on Friday a few hours after a bomb exploded in a group of empty offices in the heart of Bulawayo.

No one was hurt, since the offices had not opened for the day. But the explosion brought down ceilings and blasted a 14-x-4-foot hole in the iron-roofed building.

Police said the arrested African will be taken to court Saturday and charged with possessing explosives.

The blast was believed the biggest in a series of such incidents which began 18 months ago.

Student Nabbed At El Dorado After Robbery

EL DORADO (Special) — A 21-year old Southern State College student is being held by the El Dorado police department in connection with the armed robbery of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. shortly after 8:30 a.m. Friday.

J. G. Thomas, chief of police, identified the youth as Calvin Coughlin, III, who gave his address as a post office box in Magnolia. Thomas said Coughlin was apprehended at an intersection of U.S. Hwy. 82 West about 9 a.m. by the Columbia County sheriff's office. He was returned to El Dorado by police who were chasing him when he ran into one of the road blocks which had been established by the sheriff departments of Union, Ouachita, and Columbia counties.

Coughlin is reported to have walked into the main office of the telephone company and pointed a gun at Mrs. Ann Jennings, one of 13 employees in the room, demanding all the money. Mrs. Jennings gave him approximately $70.

He then told all employees to lie down on the floor and he fled through the front door. He reportedly overlooked another sum of money in the office.

Raymond Greer, wire chief, and Buddy Adams, lineman for the telephone company, were entering the building and met the young man at the door. When they heard a cry from the office that a robbery had taken place, Greer and Adams gave chase and obtained the license number and a description of the get-away car. Coughlin was apprehended 30 minutes later at the roadblock.

Mekong Delta Fight Rages; Cong Suffer Heavy Losses

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Heavy fighting between hundreds of Viet Cong and Vietnamese troops in the swamps 50 miles south of Saigon was reported Friday by a U. S. military spokesman.

68 Reds Killed

He called it one of the biggest battles in the Mekong River delta in months and said 68 Viet Cong bodies had been counted. In addition, 100 other guerrillas were believed killed or wounded.

Government losses were described as light to moderate.

The bloody fighting erupted Thursday and continued through the darkness into the early hours Friday, the spokesman said.

The battle, involving about 1,500 government troops and an estimated 1,000 Viet Cong, was in a swamp area about 20 miles west of My Tho.

The South Vietnamese took only light casualties in the fighting, but suffered moderate losses when the Viet Cong ambushed a river boat bringing reinforcements, the spokesman said.

Casualties among U.S. Army advisers with the government troops were described as very light.

Elsewhere, Communist guerrillas lobbed mortar shells into the district town of Phu My, about 300 miles north of Saigon in Binh Dinh Province. This was the scene of heavy fighting in the last week and an area where Viet Cong forces have been reported massing.

In the air war, U.S. planes flew 41 sorties to support the Vietnamese in the delta battle.

U.S. B52 jet bombers from Guam staged their 36th raid of the war with an attack on a suspected Viet Cong position in Quang Ngai Province 320 miles northeast of Saigon.

In Saigon, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky reorganized his Cabinet and ordered an investigation of alleged intimidation of U.S. aid officials and corruption in the aid program in Binh Tuy Province.

Ky announced he has elevated Brig. Gen. Nguyen Huu Co, his war minister, to the new post of deputy premier to coordinate and speed up the pacification program — the Saigon government's effort to win mass support in the provinces.

He also appointed a military officer, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang, as secretary of rural affairs replacing Nguyen Tat Ung, a civilian killed in an airplane crash last month.

Ky told newsmen: "If there has been corruption, those responsible will be subject to disciplinary measures."

U.S. aid officials confirmed the suspension of all economic aid to the province, which is about 70 miles northeast of Saigon. They said two American aid men who spent three months studying misue of funds by provincial officials had been transferred because of fears for their safety.

Informants said the United States was willing to restore the aid if Ky takes such action as removing the province chief reported fired earlier this year for incompetence in another province but named chief in Bin Tuy Province three months ago.

House Passes Library Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $105-million, five-year program of federal aid to help build up medical libraries was approved Friday by the House.

A bill sent to the Senate by roll-call vote of 296-3 would authorized $40 million in grants to build libraries, $5 million for library science training, $2.5 million for special scientific projects, $15 million for research and development, $15 million to expand basic resources of medical libraries, $12.5 million for regional libraries, $10 million for regional branches of the National Library of Medicine, and $5 million to support medical publications.

The bill's sponsors called the present state of most medical libraries "lamentable," with a shortage of at least four million volumes in the libraries of 87 medical schools.

A similar but no identical bill has been passed by the Senate.

Mercury Drops Near 50 Mark

Cooler temperatures predicted for Friday moved into the Twin Cities area on schedule bringing a minimum temperature reading of 56 degrees near midnight.

The high Friday was 66.

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies through Sunday with slightly warming temperatures Sunday.

High today should be 72 to 78 while tonight's low is expected to drop to 50 to 56 degrees. Variable and mostly northeasterly winds today should be at eight to 16 miles an hour.

Few Flu Cases Reported Here

A small sprinkling of influenza has been blamed for absentees in local schools this week, school officials here said Friday.

"Very few" cases are known at parish schools said Supt. Milton C. Hall. No cases were known in city schools said Supt. Van D Odom.

Principal of St. Frederick High School, the Rev. Warren Larroque, said the school had three or four known cases. Football players at some of the schools were reported out of action because of the flu.

None of the local hospitals reported treating influenza cases during the week.

Castro Would Allow Any Cuban To Flee

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro said Friday the gates of Communist Cuba will be opened wide for any and all Cubans who wish to leave and challenged the United States to take him up on the offer.

The bearded prime minister, in what Radio Havana termed a reply to the U.S. State Department, said he was willing to discuss the matter through diplomatic channels, if the United States takes the initiative.

"If the government of the United States does not wish to air this question publicly, it is for it to give the pertinent instructions to the representatives of its interests in Cuba so they may solicit from the revolutionary government the information which is of interest in this respect," Castro was quoted as saying.

Castro's latest offer was considerably broader than one he made Tuesday, when he said he would give free exit only to Cubans with relatives in the United States.

In Washington, officials of the Johnson administration said they still had not heard anything officially from Castro and would not reply until they do.

They promised again, however, to give careful consideration to any official proposal the Cuban prime minister cared to put forward.

"We're studying this new position of the Cuban government most carefully," said State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey. "It is obviously much more specific and clear than was his — Castro's — statement on Sept. 28."

The State Department on Thursday termed Castro's original offer "vague and ambiguous" and suggested that if he were serious, he submit a proposal through diplomatic channels.

That response was relayed to Havana through the Swiss government.

Long Asks Help For Uninsured

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., introduced a bill in Congress Friday to help uninsured victims of Hurricane Betsy.

Under Long's proposal, persons in places declared disaster areas who suffered damages for which they were not insured could receive forgiveness up to $5,000 on loans received from the Small Business Administration.

Long said Hurricane Betsy, which smashed through New Orleans and left thousands homeless last month, caused "the greatest insured loss in the history of the country."

He noted, however, that no private insurance companies insure against losses because of rising waters. Many people were forced out of their homes south and east of New Orleans by rising floodwaters that accompanied the hurricane.

Solution To I-20 Problem Is Seen

Problems reported by Richland Parish residents in connection with proposed Interstate-20 construction may soon be solved, at least two of them, anyway, according to James W. Moore, vice chairman of the State Highway Board.

Moore announced Friday that a third independent fee appraiser will be hired and that the design of the drainage structures for the highway will probably be changed.

The problem of inadequate service roads on the south side of I-20 has not yet been resolved, he said.

Ross Williams, highway department review appraiser, has been working in Richland Parish this week, Moore said. He added that Williams "has been instructed to retain a third independent qualified fee appraiser, to which he will assign individual parcels of land as definite information is furnished the highway department to substantiate a third appraisal."

"To further review appraisals already made," Moore said, "the original two fee appraisers have been instructed to check all sales in the conveyance records of Richland Parish that would be comparable sales in order to make sure they did not overlook any sales in the original appraisals. If they do find additional comparables, they will up-date and re-evaluate the original appraisals if it can be justified."

Moore listed the present status of Richland property as follows: from the parish line to Start are 15 ownerships, six have signed deeds and nine refused; from Start to Rayville, 44 ownerships, 21 signed deeds, 20 refused and three are awaiting any reappraisals; and from Rayville to Delhi, 90 ownerships, 42 signed deeds, 13 refused and 45 are awaiting any reappraisals that might be made.

Moore said he and Rep. Benny Christian are continuing to work with officials in Baton Rouge and Washington to alleviate any unjust appraisals by the highway department.

"Of course," he added, "since 90 per cent of the funds provided for interstate is federal money, the Federal Bureau of Roads also has to be satisfied with all plans."

"It appears as if we will get a change in the design of the drainage structures," Moore said. "After their fourth conference, state engineers apparently have convinced the Federal Bureau of Roads that larger structures are needed to take care of the water in the area."

"The third problem regarding inadequate service roads on the south side of I-20 has not been resolved," he continued.

Moore and Christian have both pledged to continue working with Washington where any instructions for re-consideration on service roads will have to originate, since the State Highway Department has no control over the regulations involving Interstate highways.

JAMES GRAVES, paralyzed from the waist down in an automobile accident, learns to walk again with the aid of a brace at the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center.

Handicapped Aided By Strauss Center

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles describing the work of the 13 participating agencies of the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund.)

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center, A United Givers Agency, serves this general area in treating those persons handicapped by any crippling disease or by speech and hearing defects.

Patients enter the center only on referral by a physician who prescribes the therapy he wishes his patient to receive. A registered physical therapist and a registered speech and hearing therapist on the staff carry out therapy under a physician's supervision. These staff members are approved by the American Medical Association. Other staff members include the volunteer director, Dr. Dewitt Milam, and the office manager.

During the first two years of the center's operation, approximately 60 doctors referred over 300 patients who received more than 4,000 treatments at the center. Many of these patients were under treatment for several months; some for the whole two years; while others may have required only half a dozen treatments.

In the past year, 3,039 treatments have been given. Each treatment of the patient requires a minimum of 30 minutes, and many patients require a much longer treatment. The time and number of treatments depends upon the individual being treated.

The center, a non-profit service agency, serves the crippled and disabled, regardless of their ability to pay for such services. When patients are financially able, they pay fees for their treatment. Those who cannot pay fees are always treated, as nobody is turned away.

The Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation Center first opened in April of 1957. The local Easter Seal Society was largely responsible for bringing it into being. They purchased the property on Oliver Road where the building now stands. In order to erect the building they raised the capital funds through a five-year pledge program, and a large grant was secured from the United States Treasury, under the terms of the Hill-Burton Act.

One of the requirements of this act is that an equal amount of money must be raised locally. These matching funds were secured from the Carolyn Rose Strauss Memorial Foundation, whereby the center got its name.

The center is a member of the National Conference of Rehabilitation Centers and Facilities, which is the accrediting organization for such institutions. The board of directors of the center meets every three months. This board consists of 11 members, all representative business men and women in the community who hold office for graduated periods of time. The Medical Advisory Board of the center is elected by the members of the Ouachita Parish Medical Society and includes ten doctors who serve terms of one to four years. Members of these two boards serve on a volunteer basis.

This center stands as a monument to the unified efforts of the members of the community who have for years been dedicated to aiding crippled and disabled citizens, both children and adults of any race. Although the Easter Seal Society was responsible for bringing the center into being, it is the community's responsibility to keep it in operaton.

No Fire Problems Seen In Ten Days

Temporary fire protection coverage in rural Ouachita Parish is set through Sunday afternoon, with officials Friday anticipating no problem in providing protection over the next week to 10 days.

Moving under police jury directions, Parish Engineer Herbert I. Collier Friday began hiring off-duty local firemen as a skeleton crew to handle rural alarms until fuller protection can be developed.

"I hired Monroe fireman Homer Massingill to direct the temporary arrangement and he has two men so far," Collier explained Friday evening. "They went on duty at 6 p.m. and we're set until Sunday afternoon, during which time it's just a matter of hiring part-time men to take over Sunday.

"I don't believe we'll have any problem getting enough off-duty fire personnel to handle the protection for another week or 10 days," he said.

A citizens committee is seeking financial means to continue and expand rural protection while awaiting the proceeds of 3.1 mill fire tax voted Tuesday, but not due in the tills until January, 1967—15 months away. The group, chaired by Fred Huenefeld Jr., is expected tentatively to meet Monday.

The temporary personnel are operating from the parish highway barn with a single parish-owned fire truck. Rural fires should be reported by calling 387-0811, Collier said.

Women Equality Gets New Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The idea of equality for women in government received another boost Friday when Congress sent President Johnson a bill repealing a 95-year-old law on appointment of women to government clerkships.

The law, originally designed to assure women equal pay with men, was later interpreted as permitting agency heads to specify sex in classifying jobs.

Chairman John W. Macy of the Civil Service Commission, asking repeal of the law, wrote the Senate Civil Service Committee that it was an anachronism.

Senate voice vote passed the bill previously passed by the House.

Class Site Studied After School Blaze

Two alternatives were under consideration Friday to relocate students uprooted by the fire loss of Central Elementary & High School for Negroes at Calhoun. Meanwhile, an investigation into the cause of the $275,000 Thursday blaze was begun.

As outlined Friday by Ouachita Supt. Milton C. Hall to a meeting of school officials and residents, both alternatives include the use of a slavaged science building, an agriculture building and an abandoned principal's residence.

As an adjunct to one plan, higher grade pupils would be absorbed into the enrollments at the Boley and Richardson High Schools in West Monroe. The other plan involves the use of three nearby churches, with the setup of two classrooms in each to handle elementary students.

The latter was preferred tentatively Friday, but the decision will be left to the connunity, Hall said.

The superintendent announced that, whichever plan is adopted, classes will resume and buses begin running Wednesday morning. "I think we can effect the plan, resupply with books and material, start up a water well and pumps and provide rest room facilities, by that time," he said.

Hall set the insured value of the brick veneered main school building at $250,000, on a policy guaranteeing 100 per cent replacement, should more than that figure be required to rebuild. An estimated $25,000 in furniture and equipment losses are insured for 100 per cent, but less depreciation, which could result in "some expense" to the parish system.

The state will replace an estimated 1,500 books lost in the blaze—valued at approximately $3,000. Officials at the school board office Friday, however, already had ready for shipment a complete resupply from parish stocks.

Hall said enough used furniture is on hand to accommodate the relocations until replacement is effected.

Men 'Stewardesses' Next?

Those people who always have choice problems to worry about are having a heyday over Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which went into effect July 2 and which includes a section prohibiting discrimination against women in job hiring and job promotion.

There are some who are worrying themselves into a tizzy for fear that, before long, there will be men "stewardesses" on airplanes and men "cigaret girls" in night clubs. On the question of men "cigaret girls," they even go a step farther and wonder if these men will wear topless clothes, as the cigaret girls do in California.

"It would have been better if Congress had just abolished sex itself," groaned one newspaper columnist in an analysis of the implications of the sex section.

But, "Hogwash!" said Sylvia Porter, noted economics columnist and long a booster for the anti-discrimination law, as well as a frequent bemoaner of the fact that no woman has yet been admitted to the sacrosanct halls of the New York Stock Exchange, although the real reason for that probably is that no woman has ever bothered to pay the huge sum it takes to buy a seat on the exchange. There is no law against a woman's being admitted to the Exchange.

We've never been an opponent of equal wages and equal job opportunities for women but we've never been in favor of anti-discrimination laws, such as "race, color or religion" things because anti-discrimination laws cut down a person's innate and nature-bestowed right to discriminate, as well as his freedom.

Most of us are willing to admit that a beautiful young lady may be more desirable as a "stewardess" than a man and the same thing applies to "cigaret girls." The first thing we know, we'll be passing a law which forbids discriminating against homely girls in beauty contests. When that happens, the judges will have to name a homely girl as Miss America so they won't be accused of discriminating. Of course, something like that has already happened in a few schools, where the students have elected an "unbeautiful" Negro girl as "most beautiful" just to show they were not prejudiced.

If night clubs don't want men for cigaret girls, why should big trucking companies, which have a lot of lifting to do, be accused of discrimination if they hire big, strong men, instead of little women to do the lifting.

There are some things about nature that you just can't change by enacting laws, such as declaring that all races of people are equal, when history shows that no African country has ever been able to emerge far from "caveman" days until white people developed their countries and showed them how — and were thrown out for their pains.

But this law against discriminating against women would not worry us much if we were just not opposed to anti-discrimination laws in general inasmuch as nature has shown us it can't progress without discrimination.

Miss Porter says we must not take the law at its face value and that we must "cut through the fantasy and use our common sense on what the law really means and why it was enacted." That strikes a responsive chord. We'd like to use our common sense and make our own decisions on what some of the other anti-discrimination laws mean.

That would simplify matters a lot. We would go on doing as we pleased in the matters of hiring people, of serving them in privately-owned places of business, and of associating with them. That is what we have been doing all along in free enterprise and, actually, that is what free enterprise means. Miss Porter seems to have the right idea when she says we should use common sense.

Gagging The Gaggers

Senators who, reportedly, would vote to repeal section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley law, which gives states the right to enact right-to-work laws, are beginning to gag over the idea of trying in invoke cloture, or the so-called Senate "gag" rule, which limits the time Senators may debate a certain subject. They are said to be certain the rule can't be invoked and they don't want to take part in the fight that would result.

President Johnson was said to have expected the bill, with his backing, would slide through without much trouble. While a Congressman and a Senator he always upheld a man's right to join a union or not to join it, but one of the promises he made to obtain union support was that he would work for repeal of Section 14(b). That meant he had reversed his stand and would work to pass a law which took away a workman's right to refuse to join a union if he did work covered by the union.

What threw a monkey wrench into the works was the firm decision of Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Senate Republican leader, to fight the bill all the way down the line.

Now there are those who say Johnson does not want the expose that would result from a "knock-down - and - drag - out - fight" almost certain to occur if an attempt is made to invoke the "gag" rule.

Those favoring repeal are in the majority but they don't have enough votes to bring the measure to the Senate floor by invoking cloture.

Now they are counting on action at the next session of Congress. It is to be hoped that by that time sentiment against forcing a worker to join a union will be even stronger.

Southerners Welcomed

People of the Southern states may have lost some of the Old South's courtliness but they are still gentler in manner, more soft-spoken, more considerate, friendlier, and more courteous than people generally from other areas. This is not our view only but is confirmed from countries abroad.

In a letter to the Christian Science Monitor, which has been urging courtesy on the part of American tourists, the author, who identified herself as "a London hotel telephonist of many years standing," commented on "the loud, strident voices of your women folk, who shout their demands, and though they speak the same language as we, they never seem to have learned the words 'please' and 'thank you'."

Then she added:

"The people from your Southern states find that they are more than welcome because of their extreme courtesy, and we put ourselves out to see that they have a good time. We welcome all American visitors, but find that, as the season goes on, the welcome wears thinner by virtue of, as we term them, 'Dowagers of the American Revolution,' demanding, insulting and patronizing."

At a time when the Southern image is under assault in our own country, entirely because of unfair and inexcusable federal government action, we welcome this compliment to the South from some one in a position to observe Americans from many regions.

Johnson Is Riding Strongly

Republicans Still Somewhat Baffled

AS POLITICAL developments are moving now, President Lyndon B. Johnson can smile at the fumbling efforts of his Republican opposition to stage an effective drive to check his program.

It may not continue that way indefinitely. but talks with prominent Republicans have revealed a disquieting generality of thinking which starts out in such typical remarks as "Now, after L.B.J. is through . . ."

That is simply an admission that the Republican party, at least at this time, has no plan or strategy to defeat Lyndon B. Johnson. It also carries the implication that the Republicans have few smart politicians.

Forty years ago, the Republicans were riding high on a wave of unprecedented prosperity. The Democratic party existed chiefly in the South and the big cities. Its minority strength in Congress was comparable to that of the Republicans today. Tremendous changes have come about since then, to which the Republicans have failed to accomodate themselves. But if they can stop fighting among themselves and become the party of effective opposition, the political history of this country would indicate that by 1972 and probably sooner they will be able to challenge the Democrats — even under LBJ's leadership — effectively.

A YEAR AFTER the 1964 presidential campaign, the conclusion of middle road Republicans here and elsewhere is that the conservative wing of their party, with Barry Goldwater as its leader, tried to do too much, too soon. The party still writhes in the agony of defeat, as was shown once more when one of the more promising and younger Republicans, Senator Thomas Kuchel of California, announced his decision not to be a candidate for Governor of California against Republican Ronald Reagan, well known movie actor. At the same time, he let go a blast at the "neo-Facist" cult, within the Republican party in California, which seemed to be aimed at Reagan.

That was a demonstration of the intra - party Republican bitterness hanging over in the Golden State from the last national campaign, in which California was one of only three States to elect a new Republican Senator. He is George Murphy, also a former movie actor, and a conservative, though he has done nothing while here to come under the "neo-Facist" label of his colleague with whom he gets along well.

The California Republican war, which may prevent the party from electing a Governor next year, though they have an excellent chance, will not determine the Republican future for the rest of the country, but it offers a revealing example of the hatreds which the party must overcome if it is to rebuild in order to restore effectively the two party system in this country.

KUCHEL'S REFUSAL to tender an olive branch to an opposing faction greatly disappointed other Republican Senators, including Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, whose deputy he is. The two work closely together, because Dirksen, of all Republicans now in a position of power, seems to understand when and how to stand off effectively the Democratic administration, and upon what issues.

Many think that Dirksen, if he were President Johnson's age, would be the Republican presidential nominee in 1964. He has shown more skill in bringing about party unity, both in Illinois in the '64 campaign, and in the Senate since, than any other leader of his party.

Driksen hopes to pass on his leadership wand to Kuchel, but he shook his head in dismay over the Kuchel blast in California. He is one of those who subscribe to the conviction that in this day of television and growing centralization of government in Washington, future presidential timber will develop in Congress rather than among the Governors in State capitals, who do not get the national build up given their party mates in Washington.

THE PRESENT disposition of many Republicans, then, is to concede that unless the present satisfactory status as this nation declines sharply, they can best use the next presidential election as a stepping stone to '72, by regrouping party strength and opposing the Johnson Administration in as many salients as may present themselves.

Some of the younger party hopefuls now look forward to a new Republican philosophy, based upon better governmental administration, more efficiency in Washington departments and resulting reduction, by many billions of dollars, in government expenditure. They predict that by the end of the Johnson Administration this can appeal to the electorate more than what, by that time, they think may be the developing shortcomings of the Great Society.

But most Republicans agree that cannot happen with their party as sharply divided as it is now, and may continue to be.

Fulbright Lives In Weird World

SEN. J. WILLIAM Fulbright's curious world must be a comfortable place to hide during this current period of international tension and conflict.

In the ultra-liberal wonderland of this former Rhodes scholar there is no danger from Communist aggression; leftist intentions are mostly paths to peace, and the only really "bad guys" are his own countrymen.

The really surprising thing about Sen. Fulbright's recent attack on his own government's honesty and policy in the Dominican Republic was that it didn't come sooner. It was entirely predictable.

For years the Arkansas Democrat has been using his prestige as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to attack any suggestion of firmness in the West's efforts to thwart the designs of international communism. As far back as 1961, I engaged in a running debate with Fulbright on this very subject which lasted all summer and ranged over the entire field of American policy in the Cold War.

DURING THAT exchange Sen. Fulbright made some statements that history itself has since rendered diplomatic folly of the highest order.

For example, on June 29, 1961, Fulbright delivered what was advertised as a major foreign policy address in which he deplored demands by Republicans and others that something be done about Communist Cuba. Among other things, he made this astounding statement:

"The possibility of Soviet missile bases and jet aircraft bases in Cuba is frequently noted. I suppose we would all be less comfortable if the Soviets did install missile bases in Cuba, but I am not sure that our national existence would be in substantially greater danger than is the case today. Nor do I think that such bases would substantially alter the balance of power in the world."

No one, of course, will ever know how much this single statement may have done to convince the Russians that they could safely proceed with the installation of missile bases which precipitated the Cuban crisis a year later and took the entire world to the brink of war.

IT SHOULD BE remembered, however, that in those days Fulbright was regarded as a top spokesman for the Kennedy administration. He had been considered seriously for the post of Secretary of State prior to the appointment of Dean Rusk; he was on confidential terms with the White House and he had not disagreed with any of the new administration's policies. In light of this, the Soviets had every reason to believe Fulbright's tolerant attitude was shared by President Kennedy.

The whole weight of Fulbright's argument in 1961 was that the United States should forego the possible use of military measures in dealing with Communist aggression and res. its entire case on social, economic and political measures. He urged this with particular vehemence for Latin America where he said American policy should be directed toward improving "the breadth and depth of our contracts with free labor groups and with the intellectual non-Communist left in Latin America." In passing he also urged that "a peaceful revolution should be brought about in the Dominican Republic."

ONE THING CAN be said for Sen. Fulbright: he is consistent.

Back in 1961, when the Kennedy administration was pushing a policy of accommodation with the Communists, Fulbright's scholarly antagonism was directed at Republicans. Today, now that the course of events has proved the Republicans right and forced the administration to take some direct action, his jibes are directed at President Johnson's advisors.

Fulbright is committed to the novel liberal notion that communism is something that must never be confronted with anything more compelling than foreign economic aid. He is convinced that the American people and his own political party's national administration are overestimating Communist strength and intentions. He is out of sorts with President Johnson's military action in Viet Nam and he believes we should have stood by during the Dominican revolution in the hopes that Castro's agents would have failed to capture the new government.

In view of Sen. Fulbright's tolerant attitude toward a militant, anti-American Cuba in 1961, it is reasonable to believe that he would have been equally tolerant of a Communist Dominican Republica in 1965.

RALPH de TOLEDANO

President Stops Short Of Victory

PRESIDENT JOHNSON has so far shown that, in foreign policy matters, his instinct is sound. But it takes just a bit more than this to give the United States the kind of sustained push for a viable world. Nowhere is the truth of this more obvious than in the Administration's retreat from victory in the Dominican Republic.

The President took one decisive step in sending U.S. forces into Santo Domingo to call a halt to Communist seizure or the step would have insured a decisive victory which would have banished the threat of Communism there and given the people a chance to order Dominican affairs free of Moscow-Peking interference.

Instead, Mr. Johnson vacillated, thereby giving the knee-jerk liberals and their pundit allies a chance to mount a typical campaign of misrepresentation and vilification. Simultaneously, the same forces in the State Department that provided cover for Fidel Castro began undercutting White House policy and laying the groundwork for one of those coalitions which has always ended up in being the landing-stage for the Communist barge.

Let me recapitulate.

THE AMERICAN landing in Santo Domingo left the Communist-dominated rebels outflanked and isolated militarily, psychologically, and politically. With the the numerically superior loyal groups in the country, neither the Communist nor their stooges in ousted President Juan Bosch's Red - oriented and semi-totalitarian party could hope to win anything but an admittance to the nearest cemetery.

Instead, the Organization of American States, more concerned with local partisan consideration than with hemispheric defense, was called in, presumably to give "legitimacy" to the American intervention. And the game began of rewarding the rebels by giving them key posts in the new government set up and sponsored by the O.A.S. The Communists read the signs right: a U.S. President was once more letting himself be talked out of a correct and necessary policy in the interest of having everyone love him.

What has occurred since then demonstrates the folly of the bleeding-heart academics, the disingenuous State Department middle echelons, and the political beatniks of the left. The United States has given its blessing to a government whose first act was to abuse its privileges by attacking the military leader who had stood up to the Communist-led rebels.

Then, in direct violation of the Dominican constitution, General Elias Wessin, who stands between Santo Domingo and chaos, was forcibly led out of the country — with U.S. connivance. This removed the possibility that a counterforce would block new Communists attempts at a seizure of power.

SIMULTANEOUSLY, that great "democrat", former President Bosch, was flown back to the Dominican Republic in a U.S. Air Force plane. His first act of gratitude was to demand U.S. withdrawal — and a billion dollars in reparations. Bosch's anti-American speeches could have come from Pravda or its Peking equivalent.

With Bosch delivering demagogic speeches, and with a Red-infiltrated government, and a leaderless military, the grounds are ripe for a second and successful Communist putsch. The Red leaders, many of them Castro-trained, are, moreover, better prepared and more strategically placed than they were before their first attempt. They have learned many lessons, they are better armed, and they have less to fear. Senator J. William Fulbright's diatribe on U.S. foreign policy, with its built-in confusions on the nature of the Communist threat and its assumptions that the U.S. should side generally with rebellious elements, has been taken as official Administration policy.

The once - defeated Communists now know that they can take over Santo Domingo in a "parliamentary" way. They are also cognizant that once the American presence is removed, they will be the strongest paramilitary force in the country. The seizure of power by a Red palace guard leaves the United States helplessly unable to intervene — even if the President had the stomach to do so.

Experts on Latin America feel that the situation today is immeasurably worse than it was last April. They expect a Communist takeover within the next two months. The O.A.S. will not budge. Those who deflected and sabotaged the Administration's original policy will blame the Communist defeat on the White House. And Fidel Castro will smile happily.

SYLVIA PORTER

Fire Losses Will Top $1.5 Billion

BEFORE 1965'S end, our dollar losses from fires will almost surely top $1.5 billion for the first time in U.S. history.

In this year alone, it's a virtual certainty that the number of building fires — mostly in homes and in communities of 2,500 or more population — will reach an all-time record of over 546,000 and the total of human lives lost will approximate a horrifying 12,000.

Every 24 seconds, on average, a fire breaks out somewhere in the U.S. Every two minutes one American home is damaged or destroyed by fire. Every 44 minutes a human life is lost in fire.

What accounts for these grim and growing losses? Is your home now adequately protected and insured against the danger of a major fire? With Fire Prevention Week beginning this coming Monday, Oct. 4, today seems a most appropriate time for you to consider the answers to these vital questions.

"The reason for the rise in the number of fires," says the American Insurance Assn., "has always been the same: people.

"Negligence accounts for 75 per cent of all fires. The number of fires increases because there are more people. The dollar loss increases because there is more property of greater value to burn."

A LESS OBVIOUS reason for our mounting fire losses is our soaring use of electricity and electrical appliances.

Along with careless smoking habits, misuse of electricity stands at the top of causes of fires today. One in five home fires is caused by faulty electrical wiring, overloaded circuits, unsafe appliances. To underline our ever-rising dependence on electricity, we'll probably use more than one trillion kilowatt-hours of electricity in 1965, a full 40 per cent more than we used as recently as 1960.

The peak home fire months are December and January. It is now, therefore, that you should ask yourself what measures you might take to reduce your risk of devastating personal and financial tragedy from fire — and to take those measures. Specifically:

—Have a qualified electrician check your house for proper wiring, the condition of your major appliances, the use of your electrical circuits. If your home is a modern one, make sure you have enough circuits to carry the load you are putting on your appliances. If your home is an old one, make sure it is adequately wired for your appliances.

—REVIEW YOUR fire insurance. While we have steadily increased our coverage, a majority of American homes are still under-insured — many of them seriously so. The fire insurance "gap" stems from the fact that millions of families have failed to boost their coverage to keep pace with the climbing value of their homes and contents of their homes. As an illustration, are you aware that a home you built for $7,000 in 1945 would cost you $16,200 to replace today? Or that a home you built as recently as 1959 would cost you a full 15 per cent more to reproduce now?

—Have your home appraised by your local insurance broker or some other qualified appraiser — if you have not had this done within the past three years — particularly if you live in an area which is growing fast. Draw up a complete inventory of your possessions and their current replacement cost. Keep this inventory in a safe place, for it will be of crucial value in the event of an actual fire loss. This rule applies equally to apartment dwellers.

— Make sure you are getting the most reasonable rate available to you when you review your fire insurance. For instance, you generally can save the equivalent of a full year's premium simply by buying a five - year policy at one time. Also, if you have made major hazard-reducing improvements in your electrical wiring tell your insurance agent. This could be an important factor in your rates.

You yourself can drastically slash your fire risks. Use your head, listen to your heart — and do it NOW.

Physicians Split Into 3 Groups On Medical Aid

CHICAGO AP) — Dr. Edward R. Annis, former president of the American Medical Association, pictured physicians Friday as being split into three camps by medicare.

The Miami surgeon, who led a long fight against medicare, criticized the law anew but advised his colleagues to negotiate with the government rather than to shoot "from the outside."

John W. Gardner, secretary of health, education and welfare, told representatives of the nation's doctors that he assumed "the medical profession will participate fully in the implementation of this law."

Their forum was an AMA conference on medicare that included spokesmen for medicine, insurance and the government. The meeting was sponsored by the AMA.

They met on the eve of a two-day session of the policymaking AMA House of Delegates, which will consider resolutions which, among other things, suggest that doctors:

—Boycott medicare individually.

—Go along with medicare and take leadership in the program.

—Go along with the plan but start to work to repeal the law that set it up.

Annis said that some physicians ask, "Have we been betrayed?"

Others, he added, are disposed to accept the new law. In between, he said, lie "the great body of medicine. They don't know what to think."

Annis charged that medicare had been forced through Congress by labor and power-hungry political leaders.

"We don't like the law today," he said, but he advised physicians to "stay close to the law and find its weaknesses."

"We should sit down with the government," he added, "but we should negotiate on an equal level from strength, not weakness."

Gardner asked doctors to continue "the candid and constructive exchange of views" on administering the program. He said doctors reportedly fear change, but he said: "You have lived with change, and you have created change."

Gardner said the law is aimed at the best of medicine without any violation of the traditional relationship between doctor and patient.

The AMA Board of Trustees has obtained a legal opinion along this line: Physicians operating independently are not obliged to participate in medicare but if they act in concert with other groups, they will run the risk of antitrust action.

The weekend meeting of the delegates will consider whether to stand pat on that policy or switch to something else.

The meeting of the 236-member house was called at the request of a minority — 37 delegates representing 18 states. The meeting will be the first of the ruling body since the medicare law was enacted in July.

Medicare provides that next July 1 people 65 and over will have hospital care under Social Security. Elderly persons who want it also can have voluntary medical insurance.

Satellite To Be Busy Bird While Covering Pope

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Early Bird satellite will get the heaviest use in its budding commercial career next week relaying television coverage of the visit of Pope Paul VI to New York.

The Communications Satellite Corp. said Friday all major U.S. networks will receive television coverage of the Pope's departure from Rome from midnight to 1 a.m. EDT on Monday.

The arrival at New York's Kennedy Airport, and the motorcade from the airport, will be transmitted to Europe through Early Bird from 9:15 a.m. to 12:45 a.m. EDT. And in the afternoon there will be similar coverage of the Pope's speech to the United Nations, from 3 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. EDT.

Comsat said the programs will be seen live or on tape in Germany Belgium, the Netherlands, France, Luxemburg, Great Britain, Ireland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Switzerland, Italy, Austria and Spain.

The Pope's return to Rome will be televised live to the United States at 6:30 a.m. EDT on Tuesday.

Lutheran Faith

The divorced person needs the church.

A divorce involves struggle, a struggle that leaves some badly scarred, some burdened with guilt; some come out of the struggle feeling proud or relieved.

There remains a need for one—or all—of the following—forgiveness, acceptance, agreement, consolation, guidance, or just plain understanding.

It's at this point that the church can help.

The church is eager to help, not hurt, by declaring the forgiveness of Christ to the truly repentant.

Lutherans believe the church exists to love. She excludes no one from that love.

Man's Own Wine Too Bad To Sell

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP)—Thomas F. Bernat of Moorestown, N.J., was arrested and charged with operating an illegal still.

Bernat pleaded innocent, telling Judge W. Thomas McGann that he was making blackberry brandy for his own consumption and not for sale.

Judge McGann said he believed Bernat was truthful, because investigators told him the brandy was so bad no one would buy it.

The judge released Bernat after fining him $200.

Millions To See Visiting Pope

NEW YORK (AP) — Government officials and Roman Catholic churchmen rushed final preparations Friday for the historic visit of Pope Paul VI to speak for world peace before the United Nations, and meet President Johnson.

The planning of the first papal trip to the United States stressed maximum exposure of the Pope to the millions of persons expected to see him Monday.

"Pope Paul VI comes not as a devotional pilgrim," a Church spokesman said, "but as leader of the 550-million-member Roman Catholic church to address an international political conference."

Nevertheless, in the crowded 14-hour schedule the pomp state is mixed with the pageantry of religion and the festiveness holiday.

In addition to the U.N. speech and the Johnson meeting, the Pope will pray at St. Patrick's Cathedral, meet with U.N. dignitaries, visit with leaders of Jewish and Protestant faiths, celebrate a Mass for peace at Yankee Stadium, and view the World's Fair Vatican Pavilion.

Protestant, Jewish and Catholic bodies named their representatives to the half-hour afternoon meeting with the Pope, scheduled as a symbolic demonstration of religion's mutual concern for peace.

The 40 Protestant, 47 Jewish and 40 Catholic delegates include clergymen and lay leaders, men and women.

Police announced extensive traffic restrictions that will close streets and avenues along the 24-mile route of the papal motorcade from John F. Kennedy International Airport to St. Patrick's, and other routes the Pope will travel later in the day.

Sidewalk blocks along the way were reserved for children from the 1,091 parochial schools of the metropolitan area which are giving their 706,439 pupils a holiday.

A special limousine, containing a seat to lift the pontiff seven inches higher than other passengers, was shipped from a custom builder in Chicago today. Its long, open rear is roofless, but a transparent top is available in case of bad weather.

The winding motorcade route was chosen not only to give the people a view of the Pope, but also to give him a view of the city, including Harlem.

"We desire to show the Holy Father some of the more significant sections of the city within the time limits of his vist," a Church official said.

"If we didn't show him Harlem, both the Puerto Rican and Negro areas, we truthfully would not be showing him the significant sections of New York."

Maximum exposure was evidenced again in the planning for his visits to St. Patrick's Cathedral, Yankee Stadium and the World's Fair.

Sukarno's Aide Plays All Sides

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

He denies he is pro-Western, but there are Westerners who think he leans their way. He has denied he is anti-Communist, but the Communists and others count him one of the most powerful foes of communism in Asia.

Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the Indonesian defense minister credited with crushing a revolt in Indonesia Friday, said he actually is nothing more nor less than pro-Indonesian.

A handsome professional soldier who was forced into retirement from the army when only 34 years old, he bounced back as one of Indonesia's most powerful and ambitious men.

He was sent to the sidelines in December 1952, in an army internal squabble when he tried to put a military squeeze on Indonesia's political leaders. He bounded back to army chief of staff in October 1955, and has been engaged ever since in struggling with government officials and some of his own rebellious commanders.

Although his plans often have been thwarted, his ability to act as a balance wheel between extreme elements has made him a kingpin in Jakarta. In this role, he is aided by being a good mixer and by his nonallegiance to any party.

The general is a Sumatran and like 90 per cent of Indonesia's people, a Moslem. He was born at Kotonopau in Tapenuli District, Dec. 3, 1918, the home of many Christian Protestants. The son of a "hadji," or pilgrim to Mecca, he attended Dutch elementary and high schools and the Dutch Military Academy at Bandung, Java. He married a Java girl and they have two daughters. He speaks English with a Dutch accent.

He became a teacher and later an officer of the Royal Netherlands Indies army.

During the World War II Japanese occupation, Nasution served as a civil administrator and as commander of a Japanese-sponsored "suicide" battalion in Bandung.

Indonesia began its war for independence as the Japanese were pushed out and the Dutch sought to regain power in the island archipelago. Nasution rose rapidly to division commander, and army commander in all Java. In 1949, when independence was won, he became chief of staff.

Three years later he overplayed his hand. In a bloodless show of force, tanks rolled up to President Sukarno's palace in Jakarta. Nasution and others demanded the immediate dissolution of the Provisional Parliament, in office because Indonesia had never held general elections.

Sukarno emerged from the palace to assure the army commanders he had no desire to be a dictator and promised parliamentary elections would be held as soon as possible. The army units rolled away.

But, Nasution and other top army men disappeared from public leadership. Dissension in the army increased and Nasution finally was returned.

Often indicating impatience with the government—but never repeating his 1952 risk—Nasution at times has seemed to speak almost as an independent policy maker.

Although long regarded as a close friend of Sukarno, Nasution was said to have objected when Sukarno tried to sell him on his "guided democracy" plan in the spring of 1957. The army chief was reported angry at the president's plan to bring Communists into the government.

Even so, he stood loyally by Sukarno. He directed the campaign against a rebellion which broke out in 1958 and has been minister of defense since 1959.

He has steadily entrenched himself as a public figure. His chief rival for the spot of No. 2 man, and possible successor to Sukarno, appears to be Foreign Minister Subandrio.

Ouachita Knocks Off Number Two Woodlawn

By BUTCH MUIR
World Sports Writer

SHREVEPORT — Johnny Knighten bulled his way over from the one-yard line with eight seconds left in the game and Ouachita pulled the upset of the year by dropping the highly favored Woodlawn Knights 26-20, at State Fair Stadium here Friday night.

The 1-AAA victory was one of the greatest ever for a Ouachita team and placed the Lions in the spotlight of the circuit. The Mark Boatright crew, after dropping two opening contests, took its second victory in a row and was the second victory ever over the Knights who were rated No. 2 in the state in the AP grid poll. Ruston was the Lion's first victim 26 - 7 last week.

The Lions showed from the start of the contest that they made the 100 mile trip here to play football and displayed determination throughout the game.

Ouachita, after tallying first in the game late in the first half and holding a 7 - 6 halftime advantage, held off the Knight's charges after intermission for the greatly deserved victory.

Woodlawn received the second half kickoff and on the first play from scrimmage, halfback Tom Hagin skirted right end from the 31 - yard line and zig zagged his way to pay dirt to put the Knights ahead 13 - 7 with 11:13 left in the third quarter.

But the Lions were not to be thwarted. In just seven plays Ouachita drove from it's own 33 - yard line to goal dust.

When Hale's attempt for the extra point was blocked the scoreboard read 13-13 with 8:05 to go in the third stanza.

On the first play in that drive, Lion quarterback Ronnie McCain hit wingback Dickie McNair for a 24-yard aerial and the Lions were rolling again. Fullback Don Bendily who scored the Lion's first three touchdowns, went straight up the middle from the 22-yard line for the score. Bendily, had been slow coming around to the form he displayed late in the 1964 season. But the 175-pound junior returned to his previous style with 79 yards rushing and 68 of those coming in the second half.

After the proceeding kickoff, the Knights set up operations on their own 33 yard line. Fullback Bobby Brown on the same play Hagin had run before, found running room and scampered 51 yards to the Lion 16. But defensive safety Ronnie Hale who kicked two extra points for Ouachita, intercepted Terry Bradshaw's pass intended for Hagin at the one-yard line to end the threat.

The Lions punted out of the hole to their own 32-yard line. Woodlawn drove down to the 14-yard line but the tight Ouachita defense held and took the ball over on downs.

From this point the Lions then drove to their third touchdown of the night starting late in the third quarter and hitting the end zone with 8:57 to go in the game.

End runs by Knighten highlighted the 11-play drive that put the Lions ahead 19-13. The 151-pound senior tailback took the ball from the thirty-five to Woodlawn's forty-seven for an 18-yard gain and followed with a 38-yard run to the nine, with just one Knight standing between him and the goal line. Knighten ended the night with 147 yards rushing, leading all rushers.

With first and goal on the nine, Bendily plunged to the six and McCain followed on a keeper to the four. On a third and four situation, Bendily powered his third touchdown of the night. This time, the quarterback fumbled the ball from center on the point after touchdown try to give Ouachita a six point lead.

The Knights came roaring back following the kickoff. Quarterback Bradshaw began putting on an exhibition on why he is an able replacement for Trey Prather, departed all-state quarterback.

The 180-pound senior hit end Tommy Spinks on a 14-yard aerial moving the ball to the Lion's 46-yard stripe. After an offsides penalty pushed the ball back to the forty-nine, Brown scampered 20 yards up the middle on a draw play to the 31-yard line.

With the aid of a 15-yard personal foul penalty against the Lions, Woodlawn moved to the fourteen. Three plays later Hagin hit a large hole in the Ouachita line and went in untouched to tie the score 19-19. Russell Evans booted the point to put the Knights in the lead 20-19 with 4:58 left in the game. Many fans thought it was all over.

But as far as the Lions were concerned the game was just getting started. After the kickoff. Ouachita set up house on its own 31 - yard line.

Bendily then hit the line for a 10 - yard gain and Knighten followed with a 21 - yard scamper up the middle to the 38 - yard line. Knighten then came back with four, and an illegal procedure penalty against the Knights put the ball on Woodlawn's 29 - yard line.

Bendily picked up the first down on the next play with the pigskin resting on the 28 - yard line. Knighten came back with eight more and Bendily three more to the seventeen for another first and ten.

Knighten then moved the ball to the three - yard line with bursts of eight and six yards. Bendily pushed to the two, McCain followed to the one and Knighten was piled up for no gain.

That set up the most important play of the game. With fourth down and eight seconds left, Knighten hit a big hole in the right side for the score and the victory. Hale added the PAT making the points read Ouachita 26, Woodlawn 20—the impossible coming true.

Credit must be given to the offensive line and the entire Lion defense which made the victory possible. Repeatedly Ouachita backs had holes big enough for trucks to go through and the defense kept the Knights bottled up throughout the contest.

The victory gave the Lions a 1 - 0 slate in district play on top of the heap with West Monroe who defeated Byrd Thursday night 13 - 0.

Hagin led the Knight's rushers with 130 yards. In total offense the Knights held the advantage, 309 to 260, but the Lions came through with the points when needed.

Woodlawn held the edge in first downs 17 - 15. Ouachita completed two of four passes for 41 yards and the Knights' Bradshaw hit his receivers on 7 of 15 aerials for 107 yards. Both lost three of five fumbles.

The Lions host Bastrop at home next week while the Knights entertain Airline, a 21-0 victor over Neville Friday night.

Airline Vikings Beat Neville With Awesome Display, 21-0

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

A king without a throne, that's the Airline football team of 1965.

The Vikings of Bossier City nailed more evidence on the wall here Friday night that they are probably the best triple - A football club in north Louisiana by pounding out a superbly played 21-0 victory over the proud Neville Tigers in their homecoming before a capacity crowd at Tiger Stadium.

With its latest triumph, Airline now stands 3-0-1 for the year with wins over North Caddo and Minden plus a tie against Fair Park.

Led by what has to be the best all - around backfield in Louisiana prep circles, Airline methodically rolled for 369 yards total offense on 228 rushing yards and 141 through the air.

The four aces of the Airline backfield are led by southpaw quarterback Mike Pool who threw 13 times and completed nine for 141 yards. And when not throwing his deadly roll out passes, Pool could call on two lightning swift halfbacks, Rudy Estess and Jim West, or fullback Wayne Childs who compliments the speed attack well with his power work inside.

West, who came into the game as Shreveport's leading rusher, finished with 106 yards on 14 trips. Estess ran 15 times for 98 yards and Childs was called on six times for 21 yards.

Airline, which is in its second year of existence but still without district affiliations because of a "technicality" that's keeping it out of the Louisiana High School Athletic Association, rammed for its first score less than four minutes after the opening kickoff.

The payoff play came on a 30 yard pass from Pool to fullback Jeston Alley and Erick Kilpatrick's kick made it 7 - 0 at 8:04 of the first quarter.

The second tally was a 48 yard run by Estess with less than a minute to play before intermission and the final score came on a 12 yard run by Childs with five minutes to play in the game.

Kilpatrick also converted after the last two scores.

Despite the defeat Neville, which had not lost a home game since its season opening defeat at the hands of West Monroe in 1963, had absolutely nothing to be ashamed of.

It simply lost to a better football club. And coach Charlie Brown recognized this fact.

After the game Brown said, "I felt the boys gave a fine effort, possibly the best of the year. We made mistakes, but our club is going to make mistakes because we are young and inexperienced.

"I don't believe you'll find a much better high school team that this anywhere. They've got it all, speed, power and great blocking."

Brown also recognized the tremendous defensive line play of Airline. Pounding the Viking wall time and again on inside trap plays, Neville gained consistently on several drives. But near the goal line Airline was too much.

Neville had two fine scoring opportunities but failed to capitalize on them, mostly due to the outstanding work of such Airline defensive stalwarts as guard Jack Estepp and linebacker Maxie Branch plus a host of others.

Early in the second period, Neville took over possession following an Airline punt to the Neville 49. After Lenny Heimgartner returned it seven yards to the Airline 44, a personal foul penalty was stepped off against the Vikings and Neville set up operations on the Airline 30.

Tim Allen gained three on first down, and again a 15-yarder was charged to Airline giving Neville the ball at the 14. However, this was as close as the Tigers could get.

Fred Amman was stopped for a yard loss on first down, Heimgartner lost another yard on second down and two incomplete passes, one thrown by Doug Cookston and the other by Tom Brown, gave the ball to Airline.

Neville's other serious scoring bid occurred during the third period after Mike Kilcoyne picked off an Airline pass on the Neville 10.

Behind the excellent trap blocking of guards Doug Hickman and David Stewart, both weighing in the 140-range, Neville put together its best drive of the night.

Allen, running from left halfback, did most of the damage on the drive. The 149-pounder ripped off two long gainers of 18 and 29 yards plus enough smaller gains to pile up 61 yards on the drive which carried to the Airline nine.

It was stopped when Childs came up with a jolting tackle on Allen at the nine on a fourth a three situation. The play netted only a yard and Airline took over.

The Vikings played seemingly flawless ball.

Their initial TD drive, which began when they took the opening kickoff, was a 65 yard march that netted three first downs and took nine plays.

Pool alternated his double-barrel halfbacking crew of West and Estes for most of the yardage before taking over late in the drive and using the pass to get vital yardage.

He rolled left and picked up five yards at the Neville 43 then hit Larry Glasscock for seven yards and a first at the Tiger 31. Childs picked up one from here before Pool threw the sprint out pass to Alley on the 20 and he raced for the tally.

Airline's second marker came after it took over at its own 47 with just 1:39 to play in the first half. Estess ran to the Neville 45 on first down but Mike Clay pulled down Pool for a three yard loss on the next down.

From here, at the Tigers' 48, Estess took a pitch out from Pool around right end and out ran everybody for the score.

The final scoring drive of the night was a 61 yard march that took Airline 11 plays and three first downs. Again it was West Estess and Childs doing the damage. The touchdown came on a third and two play from the Neville 12 when Childs burst into the clear on an off tackle play to the left side.

Statistically, Neville got defensive leadership from tackle Steve Gilchrist who was in on 12 tackles as was linebacker Monty Moncrief who also had an interception to his credit. Cornerback David Hochstetler also drew praise for his work on defense. The 148-pounder intercepted one Airline pass and was in on six tackles.

Offensively, Allen ran for 74 yards on 12 carries while Amman gained 38 yards on 13 trips. Little David Chennault managed 19 on four tries, all in the last half, and Keith Moncrief picked up 13 and Cookston 11.

Indians In Demonland To Open League Play

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Editor

Northeast State's battle-weary defense faces another big challenge tonight, stopping potent Northwestern at Natchitoches in the Gulf States Conference opener for both teams.

Gametime is 7:30.

The Indians, after halting Southeast Missouri 5-0, were defeated 23-0 last week by Delta State. However, the defense still performed commendably considering the fact that it was called on time and again when the Tribe's ineffective offense failed to generate any kind of drive.

Twice the defensive unit made Delta cough up the ball inside its 20 yard line, once on a fumble recovery and again on a pass interception, but neither effort resulted in a score.

It appears to be more of the same tonight against Northwestern. Big and potentially tough as always, the Demons will be out to repeat their performance of 1964 against Northeast.

Last year Northwestern beat the Indians 27-6 and Tribe mentors still say the Demons were the best team they played the entire season. And, although NSC finished with a 4-5 season record, it did appear to have the makings of a tremendous club at that time.

Northwestern began by beating La. College 16-14, then topped Northeast, followed this with a 34-6 romp over Stephen F. Austin, and crushed Ouachita Baptist 48-0 before the roof fell in. The Demons didn't win another game the whole season.

So now comes 1965, and the same situation holds forth.

The Demons are fresh from a 10-7 win over Louisiana College and showed signs of doing better than the fifth place finish predicted for them.

At present Northwestern is first in rushing defense for all GSC teams, holding La. College to 124 yards. Northeast is next, only two yards back, allowing an average of 126 yards per game.

However, in passing offense, where the Demons are exceptionally tough behind the arm of senior Donnie Carroll, they rank second behind Tech. Carrol threw 19 times last week, completing eight for 104 yards.

His top receiver is sprinter Monte Ledbetter who has four catches to his credit for 55 yards.

Northeast will meet the air challenge with a pass defense that ranks fourth in the league, but first among those who have played two games. The Indians have allowed an average of 82 yards per game through the air, but have come up with the most interceptions, five.

Rushing leader for Northwestern is Gary Pittman, who ranks second in the conference behind McNeese's Merlin Walet. Pittman has gained 72 yards on nine trips for a whopping 8.0 average. He had a 42-yarder among his nine carries last week.

For Northeast, halfback Johnny Garrison and quarterback Melvin Shows have provided the only threat of attack so far. Garrison is the top Tribe rusher with 60 yards on 25 trips for a 2.4 average while Shows has rushed for 51 yards, mostly while scrambling.

Shows, the freshman from Ruston, has attempted 18 passes and completed four for 47 yards. End Kenneth Holland has caught three for 36 yards, his longest gainer being a 15-yarder.

Tailback Ronnie Fountain, who had a 72-yard TD pass reception called back last week, has the best rushing average among the Indians. He has carried the ball five times for 25 yards, a 5.0 average.

Possibly one of the most interesting sidelights of tonight's contest will be the kicking duel between Northwestern's Wayne Walker and Tribe freshman Larry Juster.

Walker booted the ball four times for a 43.7 average last week in his only action yet. Juster has kicked the ball 21 times for a 38.0 average and last week he had nine punts for a 41.9 average.

Probable Northeast offensive starters are ends Kenneth Holland (185) and Mickey Cleveland (182), tackles Laird Evans (198) and Pat Duplantis (222), guards Steve Hidalgo (185) and Raymond Taylor (211), center James Kirkendall (223), QB Melvin Shows (170), HBs Johnny Garrison (152) and Chick Whistler (165) and FB Charles Bailey (185).

The Northeast defensive team will be ends Don McCrary (185) and Floyd Giblin (175), tackles Preston Hollier (212) and Ronnie Sumter (220), guard Andy Mapp (210), linebackers Wayne Cunningham (185) and Mike Shepherd (208) and backs Larry Johnson (165), Thomas Eddleman (168), Alton Thomas (170) and Bobby Scafidel (192).

Offensively, Northwestern's probable starters are ends Monte Ledbetter (180) and Dick Redding (205), tackles Ross Gwinn (265) and David Dawson (230), guards Gerald Malley (195) and Eddie Mittelbronn (195), center Ted Wimberly (220), QB Donnie Carroll (206), HBs Gary Pittman (180) and James Aymond (185) and FB Harold Petrie (215).

Probable defensive starters for the Demons are ends Ken Brooks (215) and Hubert Adams (210), tackles Jimmie Woods (235) and George Cognevich (225), guards Lawrence Nugent (218) and David Centanni (205), center Carroll Long (185), and backs Malcolm Lewis (195), Al Dodd (175), Davis Smith (170) and Claude Patrick (190).

FORMER WEST MONROE tackle Mike Shepherd, left, was converted to linebacker at Northeast last spring and has done a good job at the position for the Indians. He and defensive halfback Thomas Eddleman, right, will be in the lineup tonight as the Tribe opens Gulf States Conference play against Northwestern in Natchitoches.

Gators, Tigers Pitted In SEC

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Louisiana State throws its lightning-like attack into Southeastern Conference football action today for the first time this fall against Florida, which will battling to keep its title hopes alive.

The trip here is one of only two conference road games for Louisiana State, the nation's fifth-ranked team which tuned up for its league debut by thrashing Rice 42-14 last week.

The Tigers are expected to be a leading contender for the Southeastern crown, but they will have to handle the passing of Florida's Steve Spurrier to remain undefeated.

The rifle-armed junior passed for 211 yards last week in a vain attempt to keep the Gators' record unblemished. They bowed 18-13 to Mississippi State when they were unable to take advantage of two fourth-quarter opportunities.

Louisiana State, which was beaten 20-6 by Florida a year ago, will counter Spurrier's passes with the passing and running of sophomore quarterback Nelson Stokley, senior quarterback Pat Screen, halfback Joe Labruzzo and fullbacks Don Schwab and Danny Leblanc.

Stokley has averaged seven yards a carry this fall and completed nine of 13 passes in a duel with Screen for the starting job. Labruzzo, Schwab and Leblanc give Louisiana State one of the conference's most dreaded offenses.

Unbeaten Kentucky, which has claimed the No. 6 spot in the national rankings with two of its offensive stars injured, will be at full strength for the first time as it goes after a share of the Southeastern Conference football lead.

Halfback Rodger Bird and end Rick Kestner will be in the lineup when the Wildcats play at Auburn, where they are favored to win and vault into a tie for the top spot in the conference race.

Georgia now holds the lead with a 2-0 conference mark, but the Bulldogs travel north to risk their 10th place rating against Michigan in one of the nation's intersectional headliners.

Alabama and Mississippi collide tonight in the only other conference game.

Surprising Mississippi State hosts Tampa and Vanderbilt plays at Wake Forest in the afternoon, with Tulane entertaining Miami. Tennessee is idle this week.

Kentucky Coach Charlie Bradshaw has warned his Wildcats to beware of a letdown against Auburn, which has a loss and a tie on its 1956 record.

Kentucky has the conference's stingiest defensive record and boasts one of the most explosive backfields in quarterback Rick Norton, Bird and halfback Larry Sieple, who has filled in superbly while Bird was out with an ankle sprain. Kestner and Dan Spanish are Norton's passing targets.

The Wildcats whipped Mississippi 16-7 last week, and the loss by Ole Miss has Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant worried.

Bryant has stung his players with verbal criticism throughout the week in preparation for the game at Birmingham with Mississippi.

The battle is the first between the schools in regular season play since 1944, although Alabama beat the Rebels 12-7 in the 1964 Sugar Bowl.

Alabama, which has a 1-1 conference record, needs the victory to stay in contention for the crown it won a year ago. Mississippi will be trying for its first league victory.

Elsewhere in the area, Georgia Tech is host to unbeaten Clemson and Florida State entertains Baylor.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Milwaukee Braves snapped the 13-game winning streak of the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0 behind the five-hitting of Denny Lemaster Friday night and kept the Dodgers from clinching the National League pennant.

Along with these rated races will be such noted drivers as Roger Lewis, Larry Cooper, Charles Rogers, Norman Pearah and others.

Officials at the raceway also remind fans of the tournament of thrills daredevil show to be held Monday night at the strip at 8 o'clock.

Larson Activated

NEW YORK (AP) — Greg Larson, veteran center of the New York Giants, was placed on the active list Friday after missing the first two National Football League games due to a slow recovery from a knee operation. To make room for Larson, the Giants asked waivers on Ed Adamchik, rookie center from Pitt.

As Bob Scholtz, center acquired from Detroit, has been doing a solid job for the Giants, there is a possibility that Larson might be used at guard where both Pete Case and Dave O'Brien are sub par due to injuries.

GSC Begins League Play

For the past several years Louisiana Tech's battle with McNeese has been dubbed The Game of the Gulf States Conference season. Tonight's meeting between the two teams is expected to be another such big game, however, this year they will have to share the spotlight with two other first nighters that could give a revealing preview of what's in store for 1965.

GSC fans may learn even more from tonight's Southwestern - Southeastern game in Hammond than from the Lake Charles clash. And Northwestern's match with Northeast in Natchitoches could indicate whether either of these teams will have a chance to vacate the cellar positions predicted for them.

A preseason poll of Gulf States Conference sports information directors had the following order of finish: Tech, Southeastern, McNeese, Southwestern, Northwestern and Northeast. Incidentally, this is the exact order of finish in last year's GSC race.

It's really rather difficult to legitimately take exception with this poll even now after two weeks of play.

However, we do believe one club has shown by now that it may have to be reckoned with for the title even though not expected to be a contender before the season began.

This club is Southwestern.

Russ Faulkinberry is in his fifth year at USL and this year's Bulldogs appear to be by far his best GSC representative yet. Beaten only 6-3 by Tech last year, USL went on to record a 5-4 mark for 1964.

This year, although still a junior ball club, USL returns four all - conference men and good depth everywhere except tackle. They also own a very convincing 30-0 win over Louisiana College two weeks ago.

Both USL and Southeastern were open last week. The Lions were beaten 15-0 by a fine Mississippi Southern team in their opener so it is still unknown just how good they are.

Tonight should be a very good indication. The biggest thing going against USL, it seems, is the schedule.

The Bulldogs are at Southeastern tonight and then have to travel to Ruston next Saturday. And Tech just doesn't lose at home too often, especially to league foes. The last time it happened was in 1954 at the hands of Southeastern and the last time anybody beat Tech at Ruston was in 1961 when it lost to Miss. Southern, 7-0.

Rich Teams But Poor Records

Concerning the McNeese-Tech game tonight, it has taken on a very unfamilar look: a loser's look. Granted, both of these two teams will be in the thick of race but right now they don't own a victory between them.

McNeese has been the most surprising, losing to Tampa and then to Pensacola. And, Tech's 14-0 loss to Rice gives the two teams a 0-3 mark.

At Natchitoches, Northeast will for the third time try to come up with some semblance of an offense. But the task looks too big to overcome any time soon.

Without an experienced hand at quarterback, and not much experience anywhere else, Dixie White's crew can only try to hang on with defense until the offense can come around. It may not make the scene at all during 1965.

However, Northeast's defense has been respectable the first two games. If it can continue to improve the Indians will have possibly a couple more chances for victory this year. But that may be stretching it some.

Sophomores in the GSC have, as Dizzy Dean might say, "two chances — slim and none." This is not a reflection on those sophomores, but rather on the toughness of the league.

As for the Demons, they don't appear to outclass Northeast greatly but they do have two things going for them: size and an experienced quarterback.

The Perfect Experiment

Well what can I say. The experiment went off perfectly.

Unknown to you readers this prognosticator participated in a "secret" contest last week. Asked to throw away our chance for personal recognition (which we accomplish often through our highly successful prediction game) in order to test the true validity of predictions we agreed to make the sacrifice.

Here's how the experiment went, for those of you who haven't guessed yet.

I was asked to routinely present my picks for the college games of last week, but instead of trying to see how many I could get right I accepted the challenge of seeing how many I could miss.

Although knowing that this would endanger my rating as the top (may substitute "outstanding, finest, best ever, tremendous, amazing" for adjective if you would like) college forecaster of the Morning World staff, we still felt it our duty to our profession to accept the challenge.

And, as I said, it worked out perfectly.

Not only did we have the worst week in our glowing history, but we have received word that we have been nominated for the presidency of the "Pick 'Em Wrong Association" if one is ever established. So maybe someday we will get the recognition due afterall.

Our truly amazing record for last week reads, 16 right, 12 wrong, 2 ties for a miserable .571 mark. Coupled with our previous week's results of .815, we now stand .691 overall. It nearly seems a shame that we never even got a glimpse of the .700's this year, what with our big slip.

Now, there is but one thing to do. Meet this week's challenge with great vigor and confidence. And so be it.

Except, you wonder if that sort of experiment could be habit forming?

GULF STATES CONFERENCE: Northwestern 14, Northeast 0—the best Northeast could possibly hope for is a tie, you just can't win without scoring. Louisiana Tech 17, McNeese 8 — this GSC battle of the mighty has turned out to be a loser's game, neither team has yet to win. Southwestern 19, Southeastern 13 — however, it's being played at Hammond.

SOUTHEASTERN CONFERENCE: LSU 14, Florida 7 — it seems most everybody wants the Gators after last year, but if so most everybody is going to be wrong. Alabama 21, Ole Miss 7 — it's in Birmingham and that's enough reason. Kentucky 17, Auburn 6 — the Wildcats made believers of us last week. Michigan 16, Georgia 12 — as much as we hate it. Mississippi State 19, Tampa 8 — Monroe's Don Saget helps make Bulldogs tough. Miami 9, Tulane 7 — Greenies kept QB Dave East out of action against Alabama last week, they might pull an upset if he's right. Vanderbilt 10, Wake Forest 6 — their not playing bows and arrows.

SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE: Texas 20, Indiana 7 — they're on top to stay unless Oct. 16 turns into Halloween. Texas Tech 14, Texas A&M 10 — We missed on Aggies last week, shouldn't happen again. Arkansas 21, TCU 9 — although Frogs' 7-3 win over Florida State should make Hogs leary of the Christians. Baylor 17, Florida State 15 — a true tossup, Southall again has our vote. Rice 21, Duke 7 — if Owls have 11 men able to play. Purdue 34, SMU 14 — Griese seems to have the world in his hands.

OTHERS: Boston College 19, Army 12; Notre Dame 28, Northwestern 7; Oklahoma 10, Navy 3; Nebraska 26, Iowa State 7; Michigan State 31, Illinois 27; Southern Cal 19, Oregon State 13; Tulsa 37, Oklahoma State 8; Mississippi Southern 14, Richmond 0; Cincinnati 21, Wichita 0; Syracuse 17, Maryland 12; Penn State 20, UCLA 7; Howard 32, Louisiana College 21; Southern 30, M. Brown 7; Grambling 15, Prairie View 10.

Steadman Eats Own Prediction

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — If the food didn't taste just right to John Steadman — a bit too spicy perhaps — it was his own fault.

Steadman, sports editor of the News American, sat down Thursday to a meal which included one of his own columns.

Steadman predicted last June 20 the Baltimore Orioles would win the American League pennant, and he promised to "eat my words" if they failed.

The Orioles failed, so Steadman complied.

Oriole outfielder Jack Brandt, who helped put Steadman in his predicament, whipped up a recipe of ground sirloin strips, one onion, one June 20 Steadman column and two celery stalks.

Mrs. Burton Meyers Boyle

Boyle-Reynolds Nuptials Read In Home Ceremony

A double ring ceremony, Friday, September 17, united in marriage Miss Patricia Ann Reynolds and Burton Meyers Boyle, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Reynolds and Mrs. Edward Boyle. The ceremony took place in the Bossier City home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Powell.

The Rev. John H. Carlberg, pastor of Winnsboro Presbyterian Church, performed the ceremony in the living room, which was decorated with large baskets of white gladioli and fern. The vows were exchanged before a mirror, which reflected surrounding arrangements of white carnations and gladioli.

The bride wore a short dress of Alencon lace and silk peau de soie designed with fitted bodice, low rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves. The sheath skirt was accented with a full over skirt. Her shoulder length viel of silk illusion fell from a crown of pearls and crystals and she carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of small white rosebuds.

Miss Jeannett Reynolds was the bride's only attendant. She wore a peach color sheath silk and carried a bouquet of red rosebuds with matching ribbon. John Robert Boyle was best man at his brother's wedding.

Ina Collins, of Dallas, Texas, was pianist, presenting nuptial music for the ceremony. Miss Lawanna Perry from New Orleans was the ring bearer.

A reception was held in the home immediately following the ceremony with Marcia Burnham presiding at the guest book.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cutwork cloth and the bride's bouquet was used at the centerpiece, flanked by candelabra. Mrs. R. E. Powell served the wedding cake and Mrs. J. Collins presided at the crystal punch service.

Following the reception the couple left on their wedding trip to Hot Springs, Arkansas.

New Fashions To Uncover The New 'You'

There's a whole new world of fashion developing rapidly all about us. Excitement and enthusiasm are rampant in all fields of the fashion business. Women are getting out of their fashion ruts to discover wonderful easy to wear, easy to handle clothes. A new freedom has evolved, and women love it.

So, let's get rid of all our preconceived, outmoded ideas, and start to come alive with fashion's new tempo. First, take fabrics. Do you think of wool as being heavy and warm? It is now also sheer and cool. Cotton hard to iron? Cotton has undergone a complete transformation. Elastic for stretch? Stretch fabrics in taffetas or even all-cotton, have completely taken over in outer-wear and in underwear. These new fabrics give designers a new tool for letting imaginations soar.

And, bright new designers are thinking of you in terms of your activities, not just as a woman standing still, posing in a beautiful dress. Designers think of you coming home after work and changing into lounge clothes which are comfortable. You shopping. You cooking. They think of older women with young figures, and young women still experimenting with fashion. All kinds of women. All active, lively and vital. All needing clothes which are active.

This brings us to a related part of fashion which is fast becoming as important as style. Designers think in terms of over and under fashions all in one total. The new concept of naturalness applies to what goes under, just as much as style, what fabric, or what color. Everything in fashion must be interrelated.

Women have also discovered a whole new world of fashion in pants, from sports to luxurious evening wear. There are short, tight pants. There are medium length pants. There are long, wide pants. Women have created their own world of pants.

Friday Festivities Precede Today's Wedding Of Jan Adcock, Paul Melton

The wedding of Miss Jean Anne Adcock and Paul Anders Melton, which is planned for 10:30 o'clock this morning in Parkview Baptist church, was the inspiration for two parties Friday evening, October 1. Mr. and Mrs. William R. Boles were hosts for dinner at Bayou DeSiard Country Club following the rehearsal at the church, while Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fudickar Jr., entertained out of town guests at a buffet supper at the Paragon Club.

The Rev. James R. Edwards will officiate at the exchange of vows this morning. Following the ceremony, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jamar William Adcock, will entertain at a reception at their home at 2735 Point Drive. Parents of the prospective groom are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clifton Melton of Yazoo City, Miss.

Guests arriving at the Paragon Club Friday night entered through the private entrance to the Fireside Room. In the hall was a brass container filled with varied fall foliages, all gilded.

The white - covered refreshment table was placed against a long wall. Centering the table was a five-basket straw epergne overflowing with chrysanthemums and asters in fall shades. At the base stood two deep green beaded candle love birds.

Approximately 75 guests attended this party.

Rehearsal Dinner

Members of the wedding party and the families were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Boles in the main ballroom at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Tables, covered with white damask, were set up to form a large hollow square. The tables were decorated with boxwood garlands interspersed with diamond-cut crystal votive lights.

A single round table, also covered with white, stood in the center of the square. Here was a large silver bowl holding a tall pyramid of all white blossoms including gladioli, stock, asters and Fuji chrysanthemums.

Miss Adcock wore for the party a dress of shell pink silk crepe, draped to one side and caught at the shoulder with a bow of the material. She carried a nosegay of white bride's roses.

Places were marked for Miss Adcock, Mr. Melton, Mr. and Mrs. Melton, Mr. and Mrs. Adcock; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Brinkley, Miss Scotty Wright, Miss Lyn Nelson, and Robert Taylor, all of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Harrell, Miss Nancy Snellings, Miss Gloria Egbert of New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. John Bishop Johnston, III, of Sterlington; Miss Linda Bird, Miss Ellen Ferguson, the Rev. and Mrs. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. James G. Aycock, Miss Jennifer Aycock, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wilkerson of West Monroe.

Also Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Aycock, Ray Christian, Miss Carol Christian, Ann Sims, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Eddins, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Christian, Mr. and Mrs. William Sims, all of Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Salter, Wiley Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Engaged Couple Honored At Parties In Alexandria

Miss Linda Landers and Edwin Lester Adrion Jr., whose marriage will be an event of October 16, were entertained with a cocktail party Saturday evening and a Sunday brunch in Alexandria last weekend.

Hosts for the cocktail party were Dr. and Mrs. Lacy G. Bordelon, in their Florence Avenue home. Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Crotty III entertained with the swimming party and brunch, Sunday, at their home on Horseshoe Drive.

The dining room table was covered with a lace cloth for the event and a cylindrical arrangement of white Fuji chrysanthemums and white tapers in silver candle holders. Salmon colored carnations were used in the living room and flowers in fall colors provided various points of interest throughout the reception area.

Beauty Beneath The Bangs

Many women who have high foreheads believe they cannot sweep foreshortening bangs or curls away from the hairline and enjoy an occasional off-the-face coiffure. According to beauty authorities however, a high forehead may be glamorously diminished with the proper use of make-up. First, apply foundation make-up in your usual, flattering shade. Then, carefully blend a shade one tone darker across the forehead at the hairline and along the sides near the temples. This will shadow the forehead and make it appear shorter and smaller. Carefully powder this area, as you powder your face, and include it in your touch-ups so it will never shine and appear prominent at any time. Foreshorten the forehead even more by arching your eyebrows a little higher and focus the attention away from it by dramatizing the eyes with eye liner, mascara and the new tones of eye shadow.

BAKED-ON FROSTING

For a busy-day frosting, just sprinkle lots of 10X (confectioners' powdered) sugar over cake batter in pan, then bake. Top comes out with a sparkly crystal layer that stays on best if cake is cut right in its pan.

MILLINERY TREATS IN RETREATS . . . Beauty from the back is the purpose of this black satin hat, at left, with its mane of cock feathers. At right, sequined rose petals cascading down the back of a velvet tiara are a focal point you know he'll remember.

How To Be Remembered

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — This year instead of thinking ahead in terms of stylish millinery you'd better apply some backwards thinking.

Although this is not usually recommended, in this instance at least backwards thinking is the only way to have a strategic point if back view.

This year, as in almost no other, the view points of people who witness your retreat, concern the hat designers, and should concern you.

Suddenly, fashion - conscious people have begun to realize that there is a lot they can do to be remembered long after they have gone.

For too many years women have been dressing to suit themselves, to be pleased by the images that face them in the mirror. They dressed only for the head-on, first impression.

While first impressions should never be underestimated, last impressions are more lasting.

Recently aware of that, couturiers have been doing more backview designing than ever before.

Panels fluttering from the shoulders, ruffle-like bustles, back pleats and peplums, and back plunging necklines that hardly know when to stop are all style ways employed to insure memorable exits.

Now the hat designers are also deeply interested in the fashion story in the rear view mirror. After all, they, who have played such a huge role in guaranteeing that a woman is noticed in the crowd, certainly should do their part in making her departure, a memorable event, too. And they are doing that.

Milliners have not deserted the gorgeous front-view hat for the woman who needs to grab attention more than she needs to hang onto it. But the big concentration is now to the beautiful back-hat.

It sits on the crown of the head so far to the back that it sometimes can't be seen from the front. A formal chapeau may have curly coc feathers or whispy ostrich feathers, or rich velvet bows that cascade down the hairline to the nape of the neck.

A sportive one draws on its back interest with neck scarves, tassles, and feathers.

In any event the hat gives its wearer as much reason to be memorable as the lingering aroma of an exotic perfume.

APPLE CHARLOTTE

2 lbs. cooking apples (8 large)
¼ c. water
1 c. fine dry bread crumbs
½ tsp. ground nutmeg
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
¾ c. light brown sugar, firmly packed
3 tbs. butter or margarine

Wash, pare, and core apples. Slice into saucepan; add water; cover. Cook over low heat until applies are tender; drain. Heat oven to 375 degrees F. Sprinkle half the bread crumbs into buttered 9-inch pie plate. Top with layer of cooked apples. Blend nutmeg, lemon rind, and brown sugar; sprinkle over apples. Repeat layer of apples and sugar mixture. Top with remaining crumbs. Dot with butter or margarine. Bake 25 minutes or until top is lightly browned. Serve while still warm. Makes 6 servings.

JIFFY HAM GLAZE

The next time you serve a ham steak, spread the top generously with bottled pineapple-sundae sauce and bake in a slow oven (325 degrees) about an hour. The sauce seasons the meat all the way through, glazes it sparkly-rich, and saves you the fuss of stirring up a homemade topper.

DEAR ABBY

Running From Problems Never Will Solve Them

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother put an ad in our local paper asking for information on his wife's running around with other men. I understand he got a lot of answers and is using them to prove his wife is an unfit mother. As far as I am concerned our family's name in this town is mud. I told my husband that if he didn't move the kids and me away from here, I was going to leave him. He says that just because his brother is a jackass doesn't mean that HE is one, too. And besides, he says that he has too much invested in his business here just to pick up and move because of the talk. What should I do?

OUR NAME IS MUD

DEAR MUD: It takes only one jackass to make a laughingstock of an entire family. The talk will die down eventually, so stay with your husband. Moving away is no solution. "Talk" has a way of moving, too.

DEAR ABBY: For the past year I've been riding to work and back with a man who works where I work. He is a lot older than me, married (so am I) and I assure you he means nothing to me but free transportation.

The other morning, on the way to work this man said to me, "In case anyone asks you, you are PAYING for these rides because that's what I told my wife and I don't want a liar made out of me." Abby, I don't know his wife and can't imagine where I would ever meet her, but this bothered me. Sure, these rides save me a lot of money, and I appreciate them, but I don't like this set-up. The man has never gotten out of line, although he has asked me some rather personal questions, but I always changed the subject. What should I do?

RIDING ALONG

DEAR RIDING: Find another mode of transportation. Money isn't everything. If you sleep with dogs, you'll get up with fleas.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who asks his wife to dig into her purse to settle up a bill in a restaurant? That's my husband. Although everyone knows I work, I would just as soon preserve the illusion that my husband is the breadwinner of the family. It's not the money. I wouldn't mind giving him the money at home if he's "short" or forgot to cash a check, but I think it looks terrible for outsiders to see a woman paying for things when she's with a man. How do I put a stop to this? He laughingly calls me his —

"CASH REGISTER"

DEAR CASH: Get the finances straightened out at home and tell hubby that from now on the "Cash Register" is ringing up NO SALE in public.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine tells everyone she weighs exactly the same now as she did when she was married 15 years ago. That was 110 pounds, which is what I weigh. She is at least 15 pounds heavier than I am. The next time she makes that statement at my house, should I bring out the bathroom scale and dare her to stand on it?

HATES LIARS

DEAR HATES: No. It's bad enough for a woman to lose her figure without having to lose face, too.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DISAPPOINTED IN GEORGIA": What did you expect? "As is the mother, so is her daughter." (Old Testament, Ezekiel, 16:44.)

Exciting Art In Children's Fashions

Here is the fashion news you're looking for: these spirited children's dresses in the exciting manner of Mondrian.

The magic word is Mondrian — The name of the Dutch painter who enjoyed a modest, prestige reputation until the showing of the new Yves St. Laurent collection in Paris a few weeks ago. There, for the first time ever the patterns and colors of the paintings of Mondrian were translated into fashion for a startling first time, and Mondrian became a household word. Those who were watching as St. Laurent scooped the world call this the best collection in years!

The keynote of the Mondrian clothes is youth, and the wildfire is spreading. The frivolous, overdressed look for girls is gone forever. The new ideas are sharp, geometric patterns: clean, exuberant styles; and clear - eyed primary colors. All are especially right for children's clothes. Perfect too, for fashion - conscious teens.

AT&T Reports Record Income For Past Period

NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the nation's largest shareholder family, reported Friday record revenues and earnings for the 12 months ended Aug. 31.

Results for the three months ended the same day also set records, the company reported. On a year-to-year basis AT&T earnings have increased almost steadily since 1947.

For the most recent 12-month period, income was reported at $1,747,487,000, or $3.3 a share. That exceeded the level of the previous record set in the 12-months ended May 31, when earnings of $1,711,186,000, or $3.28 a share were reported.

A year ago, earnings for the 12-month period were 1,597,618,000, or $3.19 a share.

Operating revenues during the 1964-5 period hit $10,784,713,000, exceeding the May 31 level of $10,596,997,000 and the year-ago level of $10,031,405,000.

For the quarter, revenues of $2,771,944,000 produced earnings of $455,930,000, or 86 cents a share, compared to $2,724,826,000, or 83 cents a share in the three months ended May 31. The year-ago level showed revenues of $2,584,228,000 that produced earnings of $419,629,000, or 81 cents a share.

The improvement in earnings came despite a rate reduction ordered by the California Public Utility Commission. In a previous report, the company said the over-all impact of the rate cut would reduce earnings about 5 cents a share for all of 1965.

Hints From Heloise

Kerosene: Protective Cleaner For Woodwork

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

Everybody has been writing over the past months and asking me how they should wash woodwork.

Heavens to Betsy — there are fifty million cleaners on the market!

Each of us is different and has different kinds of wood and paints on the woodwork throughout our homes.

But here's how I have done it for years:

Don't faint!

It's kerosene again!

Yeah!

Put about a gallon of warm water in a plastic waste basket (or something!) and add a half cup of kerosene (bought at most filling stations for about 20 to 25 cents a gallon . . . . real cheap, I'd say).

The kerosene will FLOAT on top of that warm water.

Dip an old wash rag or piece of bath towel in this, wring it out and rub away . . . WOW, what a clean job you have in a jiffy.

I have been told by painters that this cannot hurt woodwork that is painted with ENAMEL. In fact, they say it helps preserve it. Now why didn't they tell us THIS years ago?

Anyway, this does NOT have to be rinsed, and leaves a glossy coat on the woodwork and doors ('specially where hand prints are left).

This is especially good on window sills that are painted with enamel.

It's also wonderful on painted metal cabinets in your kitchen. Wow, does it take off that greasy stuff!

Remember, don't try to use this with a sponge. Just use that old wash rag, towel, or piece of your husband's discarded T-shirt. Works like magic.

It's fantabulous.

Less effort, no paint taken off and leaves a glorious shiny film.

So, gals, next time you drive into a filling station, buy some kerosene. You don't have to buy a whole gallon, but I bet you will go back soon and buy it by the gallon! Imagine finding something that works and is so cheap!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When our little kiddies are bathed and we put on their sleepers (with feet in them), they always like to run around the house for an hour or so before they are tucked into bed.

To avoid having the soles of the feet become soiled, I put a pair of daddy's dark stretch sox over their footsies!

When it comes tuck-in-time, the socks are removed.

Sure saves pre-spotting sleepers on wash day.

Helen Carlson

Dear Heloise:

I save the little plastic caps from various bottles and cans of cleaning products and use them as thimbles. There are various sizes of caps to fit various sizes of "thimble" fingers.

They are really great for pressing in thumb tacks, to put over your fingers when grating foods (prevents chopped fingers and nails) and lots of things.

Lucille Marshall

Dear Heloise:

This little tip on frosting I thought was very tasty. If any of your readers have ever tasted peanut butter cups, they will know what a treat this is.

When making chocolate frosting, I add about a tablespoon of peanut butter. This not only tastes ymmy but gives the frosting a creamy consistency.

Teenage Cook & Fan

Dear Heloise:

When bed-making gets to be a real drag, try this:

Put your bottom sheet on in the normal manner. Then assemble the top sheet and blankets on the bed, but don't tuck each in individually; wait until you've got them all on, and tuck blankets and sheets in all at the same time.

Saves walking from side to side.

U.S. Registrars Enter Big City

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal voting examiners were ordered Friday into Montgomery County, Ala., the first metropolitan area so designated under the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, designating the 20th county for federal examiners since the act became law Aug. 6, said the Montgomery County Board of Registrars "is acting according to new procedures which have the effect of impeding the registration of Negroes."

Montgomery County includes the state capital of Montgomery. There are now seven Alabama counties where the federal government has taken over registration because of charges of discrimination by local officials.

Katzenbach said more than two-thirds of the 23,000 voting-age Negroes in the county are not registered, while about 63 per cent of the 63,000 adult white citizens are on the voting lists. The next Alabama election is a primary scheduled for next May.

Jewelry Tips From Paris

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

The trend to bare-top and one-shoulder evening gowns inspires Paris jewelers to massive pieces for fall. Drop earrings in rows of loops, bib necklaces in loops ending with drops and antique chains are all featured.

Most unusual earrings: pear-shaped and studded with tiny rhinestones, to cover the entire ear, a pearl drop below. Most unusual necklace: fake baroque pearls made of a new synthetic material and used without setting in rhinestone-studded fashion.

Cis likes unusual bracelets, like a beaten copper cuff laced with chain, or braided silver chain for a necklace clasped by a giant pin. She and other designers make a real trend of the looped and tasseled look.

Easy Exercise For Trimming Teen Figures

In the fall, a teen girl's fancy turns to thoughts of clothes and dates. But don't let figure problems stand in your way. If you need to gain or lose weight, here are a few simple suggestions.

If your waist needs some trimming, here's a good exercise to try: Lie on the floor, arms overhead and knees bent to your chest. Keeping both legs together, roll down on the floor, first to one side and then to the other. In a few weeks, you'll lose inches from your waist.

Naturally, no figure-building program is complete without a few dieting tips. Potential weight-losers might remember this little trick. If you tend to get hungry between meals, make it a habit to save a little dessert or half of your lunch sandwich for those "between times." Then you won't be eating anything extra that could add pounds and inches.

There's also something for the teen who wants to gain weight! The key word in your vocabulary should be pork! You can load up on spareribs, bacon, pork chops and salami. They're all healthy foods, and loaded with calories.

When did World War II begin?

It is generally considered that the precipitating event for World War II was Nazi Germany's invasion of Poland Sept. 1, 1939. This was the culmination of a series of events that started with Hitler's rise to power in 1933. Hitler declared war on Poland on the date of the invasion. England declared war on Germany Sept. 3, 1939, and France followed suit the same day. It did not become a true world war, however, until the United States entered the affair. The U. S. declared war on Japan Dec. 8, 1941, after Japan's infamous attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7. Germany and Italy declared war on the U. S. on Dec. 11.

I read about planes being tested and flying at speeds described as "Mach". What does this mean?

The prefix Mach is used to describe supersonic speed. It derives from Ernst Mach, a Czech-born German physicist who contributed to the study of sound. When a plane moves at the speed of sound, it is Mach 1. When twice the speed of sound, it is Mach 2. When it is near but below the speed of sound, its speed can be designated at less than Mach 1 — for example, Mach .01.

Who is in charge of making up the bus routes for the Ouachita Parish School Board — the superintendent of the bus system or the school bus committee? What are the duties of the superintendent of buses? How does one apply for the job?

Bus routes are recommended by the system's transportation supervisor, after consultation with a committee of the school board. To become official routes, they are approved by the school board.

Principal duties of the transportation supervisor are the laying out of routes, instructing drivers in all regulations, studying and recommending corrections for transportation problems, and working with principals in the establishment of schedules — both regular and extracurricular.

Officials report there are also "innumerable daily duties," for a complete listing of which interested readers should consult the school board office.

As to applying for the transportation job, applications should be filed with the superintendent of schools, Milton C. Hall, for review later by proper committees and the entire board.

The principal (of a Ouachita Parish system school) told the cook to tell me I couldn't go in the kitchen (at the school). By law, can this principal keep me from going to the school lunchroom to eat lunch, if I want to eat? (The questioner wrote at some length on the fact that she had eaten at school for many years, without the imposition of any restrictions. However, she notes that teachers recently have complained of her skin condition, though she has "a written order from a doctor that I am free of contagious disease.")

Officials say that parents are invited to take any meal at schools, and the kitchens and lunchrooms are open for inspection. Of course, for sanitary reasons, many people cannot be allowed in a single kitchen on a single occasion. Also, kitchen visits are not allowed while meals are being prepared or served. The principal, they conclude, was right in his stand.

Does the homestead law protect a home site that has been declared a homestead to the extent that the home cannot be seized for personal debts or suits placed against same.

Our attorney says that while the home cannot be sold without the consent of both the husband and the wife, whether or not the property could be seized for payment of debts would be another matter. Any attorney would need more information than that given here to determine whether are not your property can be claimed for payment of debts or suits.

The Eros High School at Eros in Jackson Parish has been promised blacktop drives and parking areas by the Louisiana Highway Department for more than three years. Base for this work has been placed two different times. Still no blacktop. Less than three months ago, Senator Adcock requested of the Louisiana Highway Department that this work be done. Again it was promised. We would like an answer as to why our school cannot get this much needed project.

According to Harvey A. Spillers, Eros School Board member from Ward 1, he recently talked with Senator Adcock concerning the matter of blacktopping the drives and parking areas at the school. Adcock told Spillers that the work would be done in the near future. The Senator said work would begin as soon as funds were available from the sale of bonds and that $25 million in bonds had been sold.

In your column a few weeks ago, you said the LSU - Ole Miss game would be televised. Since then a sports column in the paper said only the LSU - Alabame game would be on television. Which column is correct?

We must admit to a blushing red complexion on this one. We were wrong originally — only the LSU-Alabama game will be on TV.

• • •

What is meant by the terms liberal and conservative as applied to politicians?

Generally speaking, a conservative is a person who believes that strict adherence should be paid to the Constitution, while a liberal, in this day and time, believes that the Constitution is only a broad outline to be followed. Thus, a conservative will adhere to the letter of the Constitution while the liberal will give it the broadest of interpretations.

Plans To Retire Soon Announced By Jena Official

JENA (Special) — Philip C. Girlinghouse, postmaster of Jena for the past 38 years, will retire within the next few weeks.

Girlinghouse has submitted his resignation and is waiting for an effective date from the department.

He was appointed in 1929, when the post office was located in a corner of a local drug store. At that time it was a third class office, employed one clerk and had receipts of $8,000 a year.

On July 1, 1942, the office went to a second class rating based on increased volume of postage sales.

Girlinghouse predicts that with the present rate of growth continuing, the rating for first class will be received in July, 1966.

The office now employs four clerks and an assistant to the postmaster, plus two rural mail carriers serving about 600 families.

The Jena post office serves approximately 5,000 people and has annual receipts of $54,000, occupying one of the most modern buildings in the state.

How To Keep Well

By DR. VAN DELLEN

CHRONIC INFECTION OF PROSTATE

Mrs. M. D. writes: "My 50-year-old husband sees his doctor every week for prostatitis, but is rather vague about the condition. He doesn't look or act sick to me. What is the prostate and how does it get infected?"

This honeycombed, glandular organ surrounds the opening of the urinary bladder in much the same way as tonsillar tissues surround the opening if the throat. The prostate is about the size of a chestnut and its secretions drain thru many openings into the tube (urethra) leading from the bladder to the outside. This male organ serves an important accessory function in reproduction.

I assume the husband of our writer is receiving prostatic massage for chronic prostatitis, one of the most common urologic diseases. In the majority, inflammation results from invasion of micro - organisms via the bloodstream or from the bladder or urethra. Now and then infections stem from parasites such as the trichomonads or yeast organisms, including monilia. A local abnormality usually antedates the infection. The passageway may be obstructed or the victim is debilitated and has little or no resistance against the mocro-organisms.

Lack of sex may be a factor when the secretions are retained. A somewhat similar situation occurs when the gland becomes swollen and congested; the escape routes of the secretion are blocked and the honeycombed prostate acts like an incubator.

Germs multiply because drainage is impaired. The physician overcomes this handicap by massaging the prostate with a finger, forcing the stagnant secretions to escape. Other procedures may be needed, especially when the obstruction stems from a prostatic stone or injury.

Most men who develop disorders of this type are concerned and want therapy and plenty of it. They should not insist upon more than is necessary because overtreatment is not advisable.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

PUFFY LIDS

M. Z. writes: Is there any exercise to eliminate bags from under the eyes?

REPLY

No, altho it usually disappears after being up and about, but gravity rather than exercise is responsible. If the bagginess is due to a collection of fat pads beneath the skin, surgery offers permanent relif. Meanwhile, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on puffiness of the eyelids.

CONTROL, NOT CURE

B.B. writes: Can Buerger's disease be cured?

REPLY

Some sufferers appear to be cured but the disease is only arrested. A patient of mine who was a victim of this disease stopped smoking and symptoms subsided. Several years later, thinking he was cured, he returned to the weed and within two week encountered the same old pain.

THE RASPBERRY

S. C. writes: I've been told that blueberries help diabetes because they contain insulin. Is this true?

REPLY

No. Insulin is manufactured by the pancreas. Since blueberries have no glands, how can they produce hormones? Blueberries are rich in sugar and must be counted in the calories consumed.

BEER AND PREGNANCY

C.M. writes: If a woman drinks six cans of beer during her entire pregnancy, can this harm the unborn child?

REPLY

No.

LaSalle Group Organized To Direct Program

JENA (Special)—A non-profit corporation, LaSalle Community Action Association, Inc., has been chartered to direct programs provided by the Economic Opportunity Act, popularly known as the poverty program.

The corporation is headquartered in Jena and the 25-man board of directors elected Dr. I. C. Turnley Jr. of Jena president, Police Jury member Lloyd Thompson of Walters as vice president and Robert C. Wagner, secretary-treasurer.

Jay Pipes of Trout and Herschel Vinyard of Olla, two recently-retired teachers in the parish school system, were named director and assistant director, respectively, by the board.

Pipes is expected to file application for the group with the state and federal OEO offices for approval of grants to conduct a survey study in the parish.

Members of the board are Lewis Sleeth, Doyle Windham, Nick Edwards, the Rev. Dan Blake, Frank Doughty, Perry Hudnall, George Trussell, J. E. Cammack, Charles Williams, Roy Welch, all of Jena, W. O. Poole of Summerville, Willie Holly and Cleveland Riser of Good Prime, Robert Barnes of Standard, H. T. Simon, Herschel Vinyard and Jimmie Lindsey of Olla, Lawrence Wright, Owen Jones and Sam Lindsey of Tullos, Max Maxwell of Urania and Clayton of Fellowship.

State Planning Office Building, Howard Reports

A state office building in Ouachita Parish is in the planning, Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard said Friday after the Louisiana Office Building Corp. contacted him for information on construction of the building.

"I have asked the city planner, George Parsons, to supply the state with the results of the Master Plan study on the governmental center facilities," Howard said.

The mayor supports the construction of the state building next to the Government Center now under construction on the edge of the I-20.

But the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce also has supplied state officials with data in hopes the building corporation will select a site in West Monroe.

A committee composed of Sidney Fazio, corporation manager; Sec. of State Wade O. Martin Jr.; Treasurer A. P. Tugwell and Register of State Lands Ellen Bryan Moore will come to the Twin Cities in the next three or four weeks to look over possible sites.

West Monroe officials reportedly have a site in mind.

Howard has said the building should be constructed with Monroe's new facilities, which would place governmental agencies in a central location.

Gov. John McKeithen's administration organized the building corporation to finance the construction of state offices rather than renting space.

Parish Voters' Roll Decreased

The registration rolls of Ouachita Parish were decreased by more than 1,000 names, Mrs. Mae Lucky, registrar of voters, disclosed Friday.

These names were removed because of failure to vote during the past four years, as required by the State Permanent Registration act.

The voter, under the state statute put into effect in 1952, must vote at least once each four years or be removed from the rolls.

To become registered again, the person must go by the registrar's office and fill out new application forms.

Public Access To Information Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee approved Friday a freedom of information bill designed to strengthen the public's access to news about the activities of federal departments and agencies.

In urging passage of the bill, the committee said that, "Although the theory of an informed electorate is vital to the proper operation of a democracy, there is now nowhere in our present law a statute which affirmatively provides for that information."

The legislation provides that all materials of the government are to be made available to the public by publication or otherwise unless explicitly allowed to be kept secret by exemptions set forth in the bill.

The exemptions from disclosure relate to information involving national defense or foreign policy, investigatory files compiled by law enforcement agencies, personnel and medical files, trade secrets and other confidential data compiled by government inquiries, and similar materials.

A substantially similar bill was passed by the Senate in the last Congress, but the House took no action on it.

The measure would replace a section of the Administrative Procedure Act which permits the withholding of information "in the public interest" or "for good cause found" or because the person making the request was not "properly or directly concerned."

The Judiciary Committee said the purpose of the bill it approved is "to eliminate such phrases, to establish a general philosophy of full agency disclosure unless information is exempted under clearly delineated statutory language and to provide a court procedure by which citizens and the press may obtain information wrongfully withheld."

The bill would permit a person contending information has been wrongfully withheld to bring court action to force its release and would place the burden of proof upon the agency withholding the information to justify its action.

Under present law no remedy is available, and the committee said the Administrative Procedure Act has been cited as statutory authority "for the withholding of virtually any piece of information that an official or an agency does not wish to disclose."

NEW ORLEANS Mayor Victor H. Schiro, center, and Thomas J. Heier, chief administrative officer of New Orleans, left, with Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., in his office in Washington Friday. Sen. Long has introduced a bill in Congress to help uninsured victims of Hurricane Betsy which swept through the New Orleans area last month. Long proposes forgiveness up to $5,000 on loans received from the Small Business Administration, for persons in places declared disaster areas who suffered damage for which they were not insured. Judges Can Aid Enforcement Of Law By Image

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—A Louisiana attorney told several hundred Texas judges Friday they can help slow the breakdown in law enforcement by paying more attention to the image they create.

The attorney, Leonard Greenburg of Houma, La., addressed the annual conference of the State Bar Judicial Section.

Greenburg blamed the law enforcement breakdown on the population explosion and "our accelerated pace of living," the inadequacies of law enforcement officers, the doctrine of "civil disobedience," and "a diminishing respect for courts and the legal profession as a whole."

Specialization of the fields of law and the increasing volume of jurisprudence and laws, Greenburg said, could result in "the dispensation of legal advice taking on the characteristics of a super market."

Greenburg conceded little can be done about the population explosion and skyrocketing living standards, but urged the judges to "combat the doctrine of civil disobedience wherever it crops up and firm up respect for law and order.

"And, by our own demeanor, where it may have been misleading, we may begin to remodel the present image of our profession so that it appears to be what it ought to be."

Referring to the recent Los Angeles riot, Greenburg said the disorders were "encouraged by a few self-appointed leaders who proclaimed that the individual had the right to determine what was a just or unjust law.

Justice Refuses To Stop Process In Alabama Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Hugo L. Black refused Friday to halt court proceedings in Lowndes County, Ala., where a white man was acquitted Thursday in the killing of a civil rights worker and where a similar case is pending.

Black denied the request by the American Civil Liberties Union without comment.

The case was appealed to the Supreme Court on Thursday several hours after a special deputy sheriff, Thomas L. Coleman, had been acquitted in State Circuit Court of a charge of manslaughter in the killing of Jonathan M. Daniels, 27, an Episcopal seminary student and volunteer civil rights worker from Keene, N.H.

Aquanauts Talk To French Who Work Similarly

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — The aquanauts in Sealab 2 talked to French divers Friday in what was billed as the first telephone call from the bottom of the Mediterranean to the bottom of the Pacific.

The French oceanauts are in Conshelf 3, an undersea capsule at a depth of 330 feet near Cape Ferrat, France. The aquanauts in the U.S. Navy's underwater living experiment are at a depth of 205 feet off La Jolla. Conshelf is a contraction of continental shelf.

Language problems and the difficulty of talking from one artificial atmosphere to another caused some confusion in the conversation at first, officials said.

Kashfi Gets Care Of Brando's Son

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Anna Kashfi was awarded custody today of her son by actor Marlon Brando, who was granted reasonable visitation rights.

Superior Court Judge A.A. Scott said it would be the in the best interest of Christian Devi, 7, if he were with his mother. The couple is divorced.

Last February, custody of the boy was awarded to Brando's sister, Frances Loving of Mundelein, Ill.

In awarding custody to Miss Kashfi, 30, Judge Scott said:

"If this lady is left to lead her own life with her own son and without fights and obnoxious matters put in her way, she will be a good mother."

McKeithen Pushes For Scandal Probe

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. John McKeithen said Friday testimony in New Orleans about alleged public bribery points up what his administration has been trying to do to improve conduct in public office.

If any legislator is found guilty of taking a bribe, McKeithen told his news conference, "I would think it appropriate for the legislature to take whatever action is available."

But a conviction, McKeithen said, "might automatically dismiss him from office."

The Crescent River Port Pilots' Association, the governor said, has had a "sordid reputation" for years.

In the civil court case, former association president William L. Heur Jr., testified of making payoffs in 1960-63 to legislators and top aides of former Gov. Jimmie H. Davis.

McKeithen said he will make an industry-seeking tour of California next week. He also told of a $30,000 state advertising campaign in newspapers over the nation to "set the record straight" on industrial damage from hurricane Betsy.

As for the Heuer case, McKeithen said reports of it outside the state cannot help Louisiana in its industry search.

He said he probably would have to spend time telling industrial prospects that the testimony of bribery concerned an earlier legislature and there has been none touching on his administration.

He called the whole episode in the hearing unfortunate and tragic.

"Now that it is all out," he said, "we have no recourse but to see it to the end."

The governor took special issue with testimony that a witness understood river pilot lobbyists presented gifts to the late Gov. Earl K. Long.

McKeithen, a Long floor leader in 1948-52, said that Long "was about as unbribable a man as I ever knew."

Allowing such testimony, he said, was "scandalizing the dead on hearsay."

McKeithen said he had no doubt many of the legislators named in testimony were innocent. He also called Victor Bussie, state labor leader alleged to have received a gift, a man of integrity.

The governor said he doubted a legislative investigation could bring out anything not already produced in the hearing.

"I am sure," McKeithen said, "that the court here in East Baton Rouge Parish is going to get to the bottom of it."

He said he understood most claims of payoffs would come under jurisdiction of the court here.

McKeithen indicated he questioned whether the governor should be the agency to license Mississippi River pilots and whether the legislature should set their fees in the first place.

The governor said he may ask the Public Affairs Research Council (PAR) and the Council for a Better Louisiana to recommend laws to control lobbyists or make other administration proposals.

If the code of ethics had been in effect in 1960, McKeithen said, he doubted there would be any Heuer case now.

I hope the people of the nation," he said, "won't feel like the entire legislature" has been taking bribes and gifts.

The governor emphasized there had been alleged illegal acts and much hearsay, and at the same time "there have been denials."

He said he will leave Monday for San Francisco and Los Angeles to talk with industries planning plants in Louisiana and others he hopes will come to the state.

He has an appointment with officials of Lockheed Aircraft Co., which recently was granted a $2 billion contract to build one of the largest airplanes ever built.

The firm has a plant in Lake Charles where it will rebuild and perhaps construct new aircraft, McKeithen said, and he hopes part of the work on the new government contract may be done at Lake Charles.

This, he said, could employ one of the largest forces of workers in southwestern Louisiana.

Ruston Artist's Work Included In Capitol Exhibit

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Artist Drew Nelson Hays of Ruston will be represented in the First Louisiana State Art Exhibition at the Old State Capitol Galleries beginning Sunday.

The exhibition, presented by the Louisiana Art Commission, will continue through October 30, according to Commission Director Jay R. Broussard.

Hays' works will be among 58 original works by artist members of the Louisiana State Branch of the National League of the American Pen Women.

The Pen Women's exhibition is in the form of state-wide competition in which winners will be selected to submit to the national contest. Artists' work selected from the state show will be eligible for the $500 first prize being offered in the national exhibition.

NAACP Plans More Protests Despite Orders

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP)— The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People served notice Friday it would continue protest marches despite a state court ban against activities which would lead to tension.

The NAACP said through its Jackson office picketing would continue and Saturday a march would be staged to the courthouse to protest the injunction.

Both the NAACP and the Ku Klux Klan were put under separate orders Thursday to refrain from tension-making activities. The city sought the injunctions to ease tensions which reappeared with Negro marches and threats from the Klan.

Natchez sources said recent marches had pushed tensions as high as two months ago when the governor sent National Guardsmen to Nachez to insure peace.

North Viet Nam Hides Key For Peace In Asia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg told the U.N. General Assembly Friday the key to peace in Southeast Asia lies hidden in North Viet Nam, and so the United States must continue defending South Viet Nam.

He was replying to criticisms of U.S. Viet Nam policy voiced in the Assembly by the Soviet Union, Albania, Cambodia and others.

In reference to the U.S. attempt to seek negotiations to end the war in Viet Nam, he said the United States remains "determined to find the key to the conference room. That key is hidden not in America but somewhere in Hanoi," the North Viet Nam capital.

"And when that key is found, and only when that key is found, will the conflict be moved from the battlefield to the peace table where it properly belongs," Goldberg said.

"I appeal to the members of the United Nations to use all their resources and influence and ingenuity to join in the search for peace," he added.

Goldberg said the United States had stated repeatedly its willingness "to enter into negotiations with any government at any place and at any time, without conditions" on a formula for ending the Viet Nam war honorably. But he said the responses were only "contemptuous rejection" from Peking and unacceptable conditions from Hanoi.

City Officials Leave Sunday For New York

City officials leave Sunday for New York to deliver $6-million in school bonds to buyers for the expansion of the Monroe system.

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard, City Atty. Haynes Harkey Jr. and Treasurer Mel Cook will represent the City Council. They're scheduled to return Wednesday.

The sale was transacted in City Hall several weeks ago in an open bid session.

Funds from the sale will be deposited in the Central Savings Bank & Trust Co., trustee for the bonds, before the City School Board calls for bids on construction projects.

The board meets Tuesday at 3 p.m. to discuss its expansion program. It'll be the first meeting for Shelby Hill, a new member appointed by Gov. John J. McKeithen.

Negroes Attempt To Be Arrested

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Some 200 Negro demonstrators marched to the Taliaferro County Courthouse Friday after an unsuccessful effort to get arrested.

New demonstrations were promised Friday night in a continuing move to integrate school buses and a school at nearby Warrenton.

The courthouse march came after state police dragged 11 demonstrators from the path of a school bus earlier Friday.

"We can make this a miniature Selma," Willie Bolden of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference — SCLC, told the crowd gathered at the courthouse. He referred to civil rights demonstrations in the Alabama city earlier this year.

About 20 state troopers stood by during the brief courthouse demonstration, and there was no trouble.

Thwarted for the fourth day in their attempts to board buses carrying white pupils or to enroll at a nearby white school, leaders of the demonstrators said they would stage continuing demonstrations in this rural town, about 100 miles east of Atlanta.

"There will be some activities tonight, but we don't want to go into that now," said J. T. Johnson of the SCLC which is directing the campaign to achieve school integration. Protests started when the white pupils transferred to surrounding counties — including one with an integrated school — after Taliaferro County submitted a desegregation plan to the U.S. Office of Education.

A highway patrol official said he was bringing 20 more troopers into Crawfordville to handle the scheduled demonstration. That will make a total of 40 troopers.

Friday's demonstrations began early. When three school buses started to leave the loading area, 11 Negroes dropped to the wet pavement in front of the buses during a drizzling rain.

State police told the group, most of them teen-agers, to move. When they refused, the troopers dragged the Negroes aside.

"We don't want to hurt you, but you're going to have to move," a trooper told the demonstrators before hauling the Negroes out of the street.
